NEW ICE SHEATH ISOLATES CITY

Extension of Civil Service Ordered In City

UNCLASSIFIED EMPLOYES PUT UNDER BOARD

Commission's Action Comes as Surprise, Affects 50 on Muny Payroll.

ADOPT RESIDENCE CLAUSE

Makes Dismissal Mandatory of Those Who Didn't Live Here Year Before Appointment.

City officials had before them today an order from the civil service commission, which came as a surprise, calling for the placing of all unclassified city employes under civil service.

The commission further notified city officials they had adopted a resolution making mandatory the dismissal of all employes who can not definitely establish to the commission by April 15 that they were residents of Mansfield for one year previous to their appointment.

The order was drafted at an adjourned meeting of the commission Tuesday night and received yesterday afternoon by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert.

Adopt 2 Resolutions.

Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the commission, said that two resolutions were adopted by the board which had met to grade test papers filed in the recent examination for city firemen. One resolution called for the civil service requirements for all unclassified employes while the second was aimed at the residential status.

Mayor Hunter said the order will affect approximately 50 employes who are listed as class A and B labor, while the status of five or six will be questioned on the matter of their residence.

Of the total, 27 in the street department will be placed under civil service, four in the parks department, 15 in the garbage department, nine in the sewer department and 12 general office employes. The order does not affect any of the elected officers or appointed department heads.

Check Residence.

Biddle pointed out that the commission will not approve the city payroll on April 15 until the residence of every city employe has been definitely established.

The classification of the employes under civil service will fol-

Officers Get New Lead In Hunt for Women's Slayer.

VAN HORN, Tex.—(U.P.)—District Attorney Roy D. Jackson said today that two bloody paper handkerchiefs found on the El Paso-Van Horn highway might lead to important clues in the slayings of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter.

Jackson believed that the handkerchiefs would prove that Mrs. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, were beaten and tortured some distance from the spot where their bodies were found last Sunday. There was no evidence of a struggle at the death scene. The handkerchiefs were found 12 miles west of the point where the bodies were.

Sheriff Chris P. Fox of El Paso broadcast an appeal for garage and filling station operators to watch for a blood-stained car.

The chief wants to know if it's the "Hot Buys" in the Want Ads that keeps you here.

You will find your wants in the Want Ads and if you have any "Don't Wants" these ads will sell them.

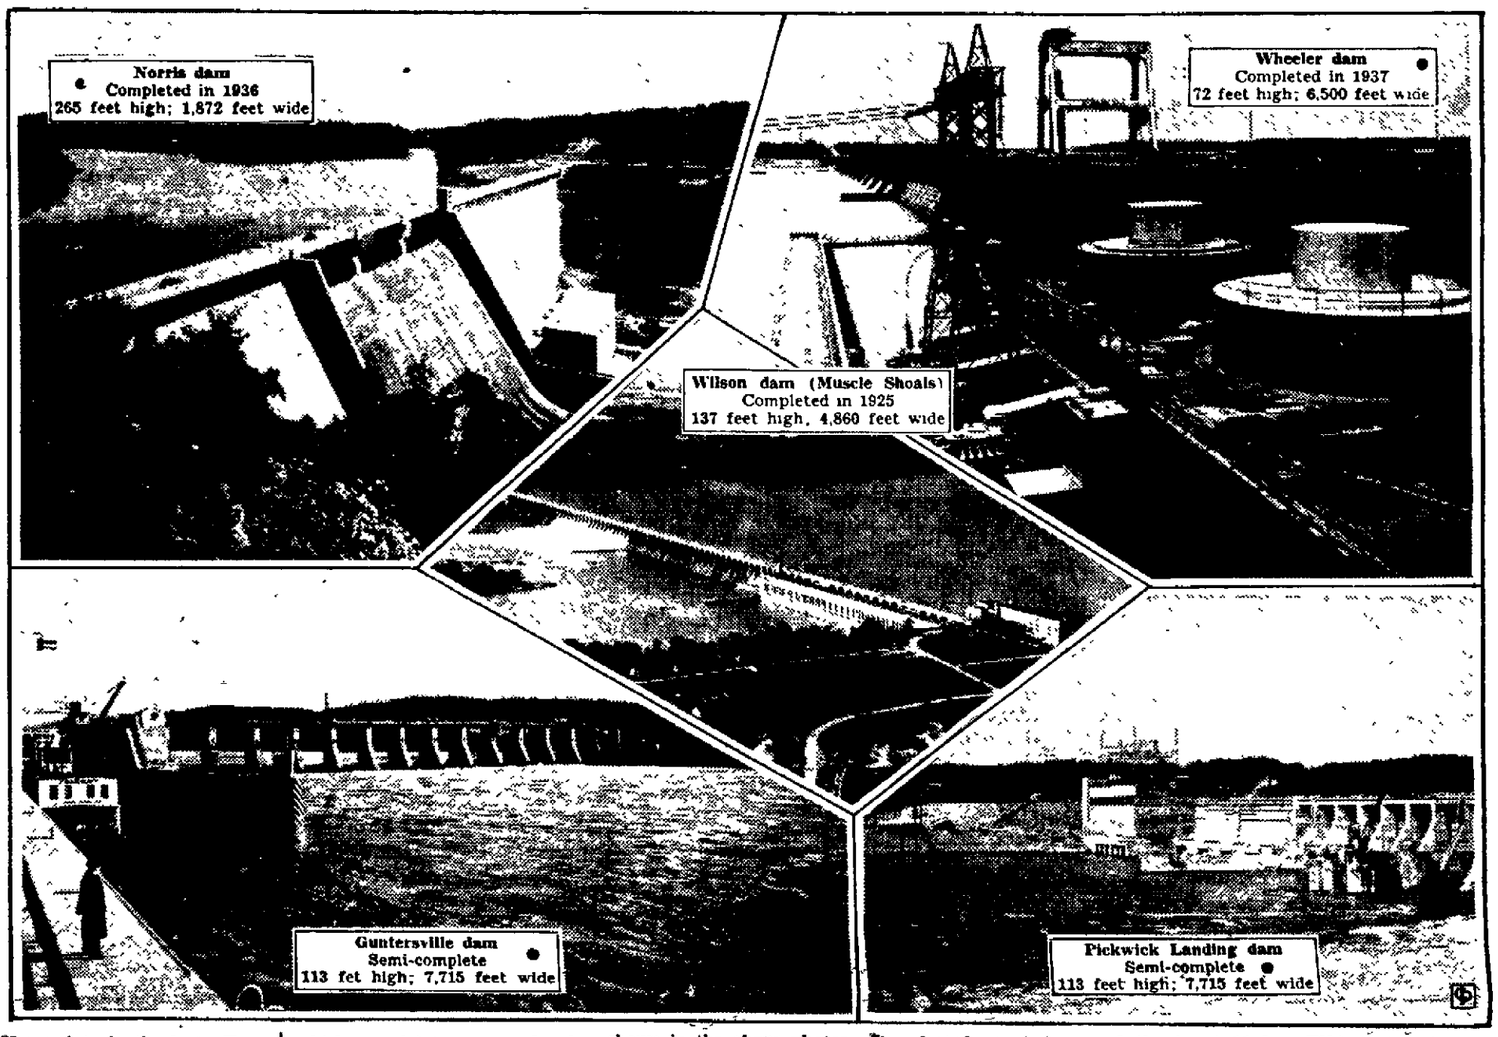
Tennessee Looks to TVA as 'Goose Laying Golden Eggs'



Key points in the huge Tennessee river valley project which a joint congressional committee will investigate are shown in the above photos. It appeared today that Senator A. V. Donahey of Ohio may be selected as chairman of the investigating committee. In the above photos are views of the 11-dam TVA system to create abundant hydro-electrical power at reasonable cost.

'Hotel Murder' Tests Skill of Police In Crime Detection

Mansfield police were hard at work today on a mysterious "hotel murder."

It wasn't real, but a staged case, arranged by Chief Meade K. Bates, as part of his training course in detective work.

Bates arranged the "murder" and provided enough clues to permit officers—if they are observant enough—to bring in the "killer." That's the idea of the plan.

Here's the problem—and it has all been worked out with the cooperation of the Mansfield-Leland hotel, which gave the chief the use of a room in which to stage his "murder."

A chambermaid went to the room at 9 a. m. and immediately called police when she "found" a middle-aged woman lying on the floor, her head in a pool of blood.

Officers on entering the room, found signs of a terrific struggle, a dummy representing the woman lying on the "blood-stained" floor. They learned, as part of the evidence available for solving the hypothetical murder, that she and a man had registered as Mr. and Mrs. Jones, from Detroit, at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. But no man was around, and there was nothing to identify the woman.

There was money in her purse, though, which is supposed to eliminate the robbery theory in the attempt of the police to solve the "case."

The problem, of course, is to find the killer, who may be, or may not be Mr. Jones.

Officers on all three turns will be required to work on the case. Chief Bates, of course, knows the solution.

TRAPPED, KILLED

Lorain Workman Crushed As House Falls on Him; Aid Hurt.

LORAIN — (INS) — Hospital attendants today described as "fair" the condition of John Turasik, 58, injured at the same time that a companion, Louis Hillman, 63, was killed when a house the men were moving in suburban Avon Lake fell on them.

The men, both of Cleveland, were trapped under the one-story frame house when it slipped from the jacks upon which they had raised it.

FIGHT 2 SNAGS

Proponents of Reorganization Seek Final Vote Today.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Administration forces took encouragement today from preliminary house victories in the government reorganization fight, but before reaching a final vote they ran up against two proposals to limit the bill's scope.

Opponents, battling to the last after narrowly losing a motion to kill the measure, offered these amendments:

1. To retain the three-man civil service commission instead of substituting a single administrator.

2. To preserve the independent status of the comptroller general, instead of making him removable at the will of the president.

Administration leaders hoped to vote in final pasage late today or tomorrow.

YOUTH, 17, SUICIDE VICTIM

LANCASTER —(INS)— Funeral arrangements were made today for Harold Swartz, 17, of nearby Dumontville, who ended his life with a small caliber rifle. Poor health was blamed for Swartz's suicide.

10,000 MOVE ON STRIKE CITY

A. F. of L. Orders March to California Sugar Plant Held by CIO Forces.

(By Associated Press)

CROCKETT, Cal—A. F. of L. leaders ordered 10,000 men to march on Crockett today to bring about "peace and harmony" in the A. F. of L.-CIO controversy at the strike-bound California-Hawaiian sugar refinery plant.

The A. F. of L. army, recruited from among building trades workers of the San Francisco east bay region, were told by Roland Watson, personal representative of William Green, A. F. of L. president, to be ready "for an emergency."

CIO chieftains said the A. F. of L. demonstration was an incitement "to riot." They announced they had ordered most of their forces out of Crockett for the day.

Sheriff John Miller said he would make no effort to stop the A. F. of L. march but declared deputies would be prepared with tear gas to break up any riot.

The mobilization order, accompanied by a declaration of a building trades "work holiday" in Contra Costa and Alameda counties, followed the invasion of Crockett by several hundred CIO longshoremen and warehousemen yesterday.

Previously CIO pickets had been routed by A. F. of L. unionists in a street fight in which many persons were injured.

The dispute centered around the discharge of three workers, accused of trying to organize employe members of the A. F. of L. Refinery Workers Union into a CIO group.

Congress Probe of TVA Moves On, Donahey Seen Chairman

WASHINGTON—Congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley authority is being watched closely throughout the nation but it is of particular interest to Tennesseeans who regard the TVA as the "goose that lays the golden eggs."

The power inquiry was in preliminary stages today. Senator A. V. Donahey of Ohio, expected to be temporary chairman of the joint senate and house investigating committee, made plans to call a meeting of the group as soon as Vice President Garner completes the personnel of the committee. It seems probable that Donahey might be named permanent chairman.

One vacancy remains on the board. It was created by the decision of Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas, to reject his appointment. Senator Davis, Republican, of Pennsylvania, loomed as his successor.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho was among the senators who earlier refused to serve. Their successors have been named.

But while all this is going on in Washington, Tennesseeans have no desire to see the program cut to pieces, a survey of social and economic leaders shows.

Any curtailment or injury to the TVA program, state leaders agree, would be a major tragedy for the state.

Because of the prosperity, if not for the publicity and tourists that the TVA has brought, the people of Tennessee are opposed to anything that would hamper or stop the flow of gold brought to this section by the TVA. Elimination of the TVA, according to an almost universal opinion, would not only bring tragedy to Tennessee, but to the various Police Hold O. S. U. Soph In Choir Singer's Death.

ZANESVILLE — (U.P.) — Police announced today that a 21-year-old Ohio State university sophomore was being held for questioning in connection with the slaying of Arthur C. Rowland, 29, Hollidays Cove, W. V., choir singer.

The young man was taken into custody by Detective Captain Milt Stotts of Zanesville and Pennsylvania state police. It was learned from police that the student was not necessarily suspected of the slaying of Rowland, whose bullet-pierced body was found near Paris, Pa., Tuesday.

The youth was expected to be taken to Pennsylvania for further questioning.

Duffy Says New Law Doesn't Affect Reformatory Guards.

Guards at the Mansfield reformatory and the London prison farm will not benefit by the pay increases voted by the legislature for Ohio penitentiary guards, Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy ruled today in an opinion to Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director.

Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said that Mrs. Allman in asking for the opinion, said 68 guards at Mansfield and 66 guards at London were working 10 and 12 hours a day and drew a maximum pay of $130 a month, compared with the $150 to $170 now received by penitentiary guards under an eight-hour schedule.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — John W. Bricker, former attorney general, today had been voted the support of the Cuyahoga county Republican executive committee as Republican candidate for the nomination for governor of Ohio.

Seek to Pass New Tax Bill By Nightfall

Profits Tax Wiped Out, Senate Waits on Draft of Substitute.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Sponsors of the senate revenue bill, easy winners in their fight against administration-backed business taxes, maneuvered today to pass the measure by nightfall.

After little more than perfunctory objections from Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the administration leader, far-reaching committee proposals to wipe out the undistributed profits tax and overhaul the capital gains levy were approved without a roll call.

Barkley forecast, however, that some form of profits tax would be re-inserted by a joint conference committee which will adjust differences between senate and house versions of the tax bill.

Approves Substitute.

In general, the senate voted to substitute a flat 18 per cent rate on corporation incomes in place of a house-approved undistributed profits tax and to levy a flat 15 per cent rate on capital gains in lieu of the house graduated scale.

Numerous minor committee proposals were accepted without question by senators, working at the fastest pace many gallery visitors could remember.

A proposed 25-cent increase in the $2 per gallon tax on hard liquor, however, was passed over until today. A proposal to impose a 6-cent poundage tax on imported pork, opposed by both the administration and the finance committee, was rejected.

By smooth-working generalship, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the fiance committee talked many senators out of making long-winded speeches, so that debate yesterday lasted only a few hours.

Vice President Garner, who fidgeted on the rostrum at any sign of extended argument, gaveled most of the committee proposals to quick approval.

PURSE EMPTY

Mrs. Hewitt's Funds Cut From $250,000 Yearly to $250.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, who once was reported to have spent $250,000 a year, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, listing assets of $250 and "chattels of unknown value" against liabilities of $693,741.20.

Overshadowing other liabilities was a claim of $500,000 on behalf of her daughter, Anne Cooper Hewitt Gay, of San Francisco, who was named contingent creditor. The $500,000, Mrs. Hewitt said, was demanded as damages after a sterilization operation which the daughter claimed was ordered by Mrs. Hewitt.

The petition, filed in federal court yesterday, said the claim had been disputed and that she never had been served with the papers.

DEATH HITS ROYAL FAMILY

LONDON—(INS)—The Marquess of Milford Haven, a relative of the British royal family, died at a nursing home here today after a brief illness. He was 46.

Ashland College Restored to List of Accredited Schools

Ashland college today was restored to the list of accredited institutions of education by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, at the association's 43rd annual meeting in Chicago, according to an International News dispatch.

The commission of institutions of higher learning, in concurring with the previous recommendation contained in the report of the board of reviews, re-admitted Ashland to accredited status. Kenyon college at Gambier, O., was likewise restored.

Ashland lost its standing three years ago when the general pattern of the school, especially its curriculum, personnel and instructors, received a low rating from the association. Ratings are based on all phases of the school, including buildings, organization, administration, instructors, personnel and curriculum, according to Prof. R. R. Hahun, dean of students.

Dr. C. L. Anspach, president of the institution, was not in Ashland today and could not be reached.

"Our rating was rather low three years ago when we were dropped from the list of accredited schools," Dean Hahun said, "but under the leadership of Dr. Anspach, who came to the school soon after that, we have worked our way back, and now are rated high on the general pattern of the school, and especially on curriculum, personnel and instructors. Dr. Anspach has enlisted the aid and co-operation of Dean B. L. Stradley of Ohio State university and through him has received the advice and counsel of a number of experts on various phases of school work."

The North Central Association (which is the "Dunn and Bradstreet" of educational institutions) also restored a number of high schools to accredited standing, among them the Bucyrus Holmes-Liberty high school.

UTILITY LINES DOWN AS LOSS HITS $50,000

17 Dead In Floods, Tornadoes; Delayed Winter Grips U. S. From Atlantic to Rockies.

DAMAGE MOUNTS HOURLY

County In Center of Storm Area; Little Hope For Relief, More Rain Due.

Mansfield awoke today to find itself virtually cut off from the rest of the world as a new ice sheath coated the area in the most destructive April storm on record. Damage mounted hourly as communication officials heard new reports of crippled lines, and loss to utility companies alone was estimated at nearly $50,000 in the county.

At least 17 persons were dead in the nation in tornadoes, floods and blizzards as a score of states suffered from the wrath of delayed winter weather.

More Rain, Cold Forecast.

There was little hope for immediate relief from the storm which has held this section in its grasp for three days. The weather forecast predicted more rain with lower temperatures tonight and Saturday. More than two inches of rain has soaked the Mansfield area since Wednesday night, most of it freezing as it fell.

Richland county was in the center of the ice afflicted area which extended across north central Ohio from the Indiana line to Ashland county and from Huron to Morrow counties.

Heaviest damage was reported by utilities from lines demolished by tree branches snapped off by the ice which formed as the rain froze.

Toll Lines Hardest Hit.

Only 12 of 100 telephone toll lines out of Mansfield were open this morning and there was no outlet by telephone to the south, southwest and southeast.

C. L. Lisle, equipment superintendent of the Mansfield Telephone company, said there were at least 2,500 telephones out of service in the county, including 250 at Butler which has been without service for two days due to a power line break. Damage

'Grace Notes' Win District Finals Of Talent Quest

(Picture on Page 13)

A trio of Mansfield girl harmonizers walked off with first honors last night in the district final of the talent quest which has been underway in this area for the past three weeks, and as a result will start Monday on a week's tour of six Ohio Warner Brothers theaters which have taken part in the quest.

The "Three Grace Notes," Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan and Ruth Cox, topped six other competing acts at the Ohio theater here last night and came in easy winners.

Winners were chosen on the basis of audience applause.

The quest for talent was sponsored by National Broadcasting company, Warner Brothers theaters and The News-Journal. E. R. Alcott, talent scout for NBC, has been in direct charge of the eliminations.

Other theaters taking part in the quest are in Coshocton, Youngstown, Lorain and two in Cleveland, the Uptown and the Variety. A regular vaudeville unit, made up of the winners from each district, will open in Coshocton Monday, play Youngstown and Lorain, the following two days, and will be in Mansfield next Thursday night. Friday and Saturday they will play in Cleveland.

The state winner will be taken to New York City for three days for screen and radio tests.

The "Three Grace Notes" are well known to Mansfield audiences, having appeared in a number of shows here. They have professional ambitions and for a number of months have been coaching with Fred Wilson, program director of WTAM.

Last night they sang two numbers: the popular "Bie Mir Bist Du Schoen," and for an encore "My Blue Heaven." They will use these while on tour.

SCREEN STAR BUYS FARM

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sylvia Sidney of the screen is going in for farming—when she has time for it. She has bought a 114-acre farm in Hunterdon county N. J., and she and her mother plan to spend their time there when Sylvia's stage and screen work will permit.

Hopes Greek Pastor Cherished Since Boyhood Come True--He's In America

Language Still Puzzle But Very Name of Country Thrills Him.

The Rev. Zanos Gougoutas, scholarly Greek theologian, came to Mansfield because the archbishop of the North American diocese assigned him to the congregation here, but the very name of "America" has thrilled him since boyhood, and has stood for the finest interpretation of personal liberty.

He has been here but a few weeks and can speak no English, but one of his cherished possessions is a replica of Gilbert Stuart's famous painting of George Washington. It is an oil canvas which he had a friend paint for him from a small picture several years ago. And he knows more of Washington's life and his place in American history than most American schoolboys.

A graduate of the Theological Seminary of Salonica, and a nephew of the dean of the University of Athens, Rev. Gougoutas is serving as pastor of the Greek Orthodox church, 207½ North Main street.

Interviewing a man who doesn't understand a word of English has its drawbacks, even when there is a competent interpreter. Miss Caleopy Zaros, Mansfield-born but of Greek parentage, who is acting as tutor to Rev. Gougoutas, agreed to serve as interpreter.

"What is the most noticeable difference between the people of your own country whom you have just left and the people of America whom you have just met?" he was

A lot at First avenue and Auburn street will be sold on another tax judgment against Mary B. Wright and others for $2,397. The lot is appraised at $350.

TRAPPED IN STOVE

BEAVER DAM, Wis.—(U P.)—A complaint of "queer noises" in a combination coal and gas range was made to the local power and light company by its owner. Service men investigated, found a small owl had entered through the chimney, continued through the stove pipe, and had lodged in the back part of the stove.

BRIDGES HELPS TIGERS WHIP MINOR LOOP CLUB

LAKELAND, Fla.—(AP)—Tommy Bridges, returning to duty after a long idleness caused by an elbow injury, helped the Detroit Tigers defeat the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1, yesterday in a game in which Toronto got eight hits to Detroit's three.

The Tigers released three pitchers to the Toledo American association club. They are Stanley Corbett, Pat McLaughlin, and Joe Rogalski. McLaughlin finished last season with Detroit.

Weaken Streaks

Cripples Hurt Mansfield's Win Chances In Dual Meet With Newark.

MANSFIELD high school thinclads will not be at their full strength for their second dual meet of the season against Newark at Stadium field, Saturday.

This was revealed today by Coach Harry Mehock after he checked the hospital list.

Hurdles Still Limping.

Daryl Heiser and Dave Shelley, whom Mehock is expecting to collect points for the Red Streaks in the high hurdles, are still limping with bad ankles.

Joe Logan, who runs a pretty mean century and furlong, will also be on the sidelines when the Wildcats of Licking county come to town.

Shelley's injured ankle has responded to treatment, but Mehock may decide against using him Saturday because of the risk of aggravating the bad member.

Heiser is definitely on the sidelines for at least another week, and Mehock has no intentions of using Logan.

Logan suffered a recurrence of an old muscle injury in the Fremont defeat last week, and Mehock figures that only rest will bring out the soreness.

With these athletes on the bench, the Streaks will be no stronger than they were against Fremont. This accounts for Mehock's current frown.

Power in District.

Weakened to this extent, Mansfield may be forced to accept another beating Saturday. Newark is regarded as a power in the central district and comes to Mansfield with a veteran team, strengthened greatly by the development of sophomore material.

Only two members of the state championship basketball team are members of the track squad. They are Gabbo Giles and Freddy Myers, both veterans of three track years.

Giles specializes in the shot, discus and 100-yard dash, while Myers is a miler. Reports from Newark are to the effect that Myers may try for a "double" in the mile and half-mile here Saturday.

Mansfield and Newark have been meeting annually on the track since 1931, with the Streaks winning every meet. Last year's meet was the closest of the series, 75 to 57.

Cannonsburg, Pa., Returns to Relays

The first out-of-state entry for the 12th annual Mansfield Relays was received late yesterday by Director Harry E. Mehock from Cannonsburg, Pa., high school.

This year will mark the third year for the Cannonsburg school in the Relays, but the first time it has entered a full squad. Cannonsburg entered only eight athletes last year, and will send a squad of 22 for the April 23 carnival.

Friendly House Joins A. A. U.

All future athletic events sponsored by the Friendly House will be staged under A. A. U. supervision, Mike Wentz, settlement athletic commissioner, announced today. A sanction from the national association was received today. The sanction qualifies all Friendly House athletes for competition in events supervised by this organization.

Picks Indians to End Reign Of Yankees In American League

By BILL BRAUCHER, Central Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK—Armed with a parachute, a derrick and a burnt-leather Indian sofa cushion, kindly loaned by Aunt Agatha, your correspondent is perching again out on the tip of the shakiest limb on the tree.

You have to have some equipment to pick the Indians and Cubs to win pennants, and I guess that's it. But there is one advantage in roosting on a twig so weak. I'm all alone. Just below, my colleagues who have picked the Yankees and Giants to repeat are safely ensconced on stronger branches, but they are a little bit crowded. Nothing like an individual perch.

Sorting Them Out.

Now to attempt to bring some logic into the matter, here are the seasons:

CLEVELAND—Power, pitching and thinking. The best pitching staff in baseball, plus a flock of hitters. Manager Oscar Vitt, one of the sharpest baseball minds in the business, is in charge of the mental gymnastics. Don't underestimate him. That little matter of an infield weakness we're leaving to Oscar to fix up.

NEW YORK—Rookie Gordon at second base. Rookie Henrich in right field. Pitching likely to be mediocre. Third pennant jinx.

DETROIT — Broken leg for Crocher. Couple of pitchers who might as well have broken arms, Rowe? Who knows? Kennedy? How often will he work? And did you read that something has snapped in Tommy Bridges' arm?

WASHINGTON — Bonura will lead them into the first division with a bat. Young pitchers look very promising. Good defensive club. Good hitting, too.

BOSTON—Building with a view to winning a pennant in a couple of years. Capable of surprising any team on a given afternoon. Bred more for sprints, however, than the full doubleheader derby route.

CHICAGO — Appling's broken leg is a sad blow. Dykes will miss Bonura plenty when the White Sox get on base. Tough luck, Jimmy.

PHILADELPHIA — Youngsters all around. Mack still experimenting with this position and that, but has enough ball club to beat out the ST. LOUIS BROWNS—There is no place left to pick them for but last. They'll win more ball games, however, than the Browns did last year, and make it tougher for everybody.

National League.

CHICAGO — The Cubs look grand. Team should have won the pennant last year. Grimm can count on better pitching and better balance, and a fine man to have around is Tony Lazzeri.

ST. LOUIS—Cardinals are improving weak spots, and will get better day's work out of the pitching staff this year. Picked up some pretty fair country hitters out of the chain stores, too.

PITTSBURGH — Better all around, especially pitching, with young hurlers ready to click. This Johnny Rizzo is a pretty good outfielder and hitter, they say.

NEW YORK—The Giants should have finished fourth last year, and can't expect to have all the luck. Hubbell is getting along in years. How about Castleman? How about Whitehead, who had his appendix snatched?

CINCINNATI — Another ball club with a smart manager. Pitching is better than it seemed last year. Definite improvements in infield and outfield.

BOSTON—Good pitching, but the hitting still is off. Casey Stengel knows baseball well enough, but he can't hypnotize swingers into hitters.

BROOKLYN — Pitching under par. Improvements at other points not enough.

PHILADELPHIA—Fair pitching, but not enough ball players on the premises to warrant any enthusiasm.

Prepares For Spring Season

Bellville Athletes Work on Track, Diamond.

BELLVILLE — Baseball and track are holding the spotlight in spring activities at Bellville high school.

A number of likely looking prospects have turned out for the baseball squad, and Coach Royd Hodges hopes to place a strong club on the diamond.

Only two games have been scheduled so far, but Hodges is making arrangements for several other tilts. The program calls for contests with Cary high school April 29 and Sulphur Springs April 30.

The athletes are going through daily drills on the cinder track, although the school has not as yet set up a schedule for track events.

Frank Balbaugh Annexes Title

Frank Balbaugh won the Y. M. C. A. Handball tournament championship last night at the Y by defeating Paul Muth in the finals.

Balbaugh, who annexed the title in 1936, came back in splendid fashion last night to topple Muth in straight sets, 21-9, 21-12, 21-15. The champion defeated Andy Kline and Pete Merschdorf in opening round games.

TOLEDO U. SCHEDULES CAGE TRIP TO EAST

TOLEDO—(AP)—The University of Toledo Rockets will play a three-game basketball schedule in the east next year, it was announced by Dr. C. W. Spears, athletic director, today. Rockets play Long Island university, St. Joseph's college and George Washington university. Dr. Spears said the Rockets will play a 30-game schedule.

WALLY MOSES COLLECTS FIVE IN FIRST GAME

CLINTON, S. C.—(AP)—Playing his first game of the year, Outfielder Wally Moses yesterday led the Philadelphia Athletics to an easy 17 to 1 victory over Presbyterian college. Moses, a holdout until several days ago, got five consecutive hits in six times at bat, including a home run and two doubles to pound in five runs.

GRANGE AGAIN SIGNS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Harold "Red" Grange, completely recovered from an operation he underwent early in March, signed a contract with the Chicago Bears today to officially start his 21st season in pro football.

WINS BRITISH TITLE

LONDON—(AP)—Len Harvey, former British and empire heavyweight champion, won the British light heavyweight belt last night outpointing Jock McAvoy in a fast 15-round affair.

CLASS D'S JUMP DIZ

ALBANY — (AP) — Dizzy Dean struck out three batters in the fourth, but he yielded six runs in five innings at the Cardinals registered a 16 to 6 decision over Albany of the Georgia-Florida league yesterday.

WESTERN TEAM SECOND

Western Avenue school track team finished second in the grade school meet held at the Stadium Tuesday instead of third as previously announced. Brinkerhoff finished third, with Bushnell the winner.

Gehrig Appears In Majestic Film

The "Iron Man" of baseball becomes the "shootin'-Iron Man" of the movies in "Rawhide," now current at the Majestic theater.

Featured in the film is Larrupin' Lou Gehrig, star first baseman of the New York Yankees.

Gehrig is seen in the picture at the close of the 1937 baseball season, sworn to retire from baseball for a life of peace and comfort in the town of Rawhide, Ariz.

Tourney Ends This Week-End

Bowling in the American Legion state tournament will be concluded at the Meder Recreation alleys this week-end.

Teams scheduled to bowl this week-end are two from Mansfield, Columbus and Toledo, and one each from Cleveland, Mt. Vernon, Salem and Tiffin.

The American Legion of Hebron will stage a trap shoot Sunday, starting at 11 a. m.

However, the baseball star reckoned not with a band of invading city slickers, and with Smith Ballew, singing cowboy star, he formed a two-man vigilante committee to drive them from the country.

Three Mansfield Quintets Play In Y Finals Tonight

Jimmy's Lunches Meet Marion, Yuncker Sports Face Rex Billiards In Title Games.

By CHARLES MARTIN

MANSFIELD will be well-represented in the finals of the Gold Medal basketball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. today.

Jimmy's Lunches, the Junior Yuncker Sports and the Rex Billiards are the quintets carrying the Mansfield colors.

The Yuncker club battles the Cuemen in the Class B finals at 8:30 p. m., while the Lunches face Ralph's Snappy Service outfit of Marion for the Class A championship at 9:30 p. m.

The program gets under way at 7 p. m. with the Class B consolation affair which tosses the Ashland Y. M. C. A. team against the Mansfield Queen Bees. And the Lakewood Merchants and Galion Barbers meet in the "A" consolation tilt at 7:45 p. m.

Encounter Trouble.

Both the favorites encountered trouble in the semi-finals last night. The Lunchmen had to come from behind to topple a determined Galion Barber club, 31 to 21, while the Sports broke loose with a last-minute cluster of buckets to down the surprising Queen Bees, 34 to 26.

In the other "B" affair, the Rex Billiards established themselves as a dangerous outfit by walloping the Ashland Y. M. C. A., 52 to 10, with Bob Bogantz, former Ontario high star, setting an individual record with 19 points.

Although handicapped by Lakewood's height, the Snappy Service club came in with a last-half spurt to finish on the long end of a 29 to 26 score.

Galion, led by Shoemaker, swept the Lunches off their feet in the opening half. After Jimmy Breres' outfit had piled up a 6 to 0 lead in the opening minutes, the Barbers came right back at the intermission to lead, 13 to 10.

And then with Mike Wentz and Johnny Rees leading the way, the Lunches soon gained advantage of the situation. Wentz and Rees dumped in eight points apiece to set the pace. Shoemaker scored eight to lead Galion.

Noel Morgan paved the way for the Sports' victory. The former Mansfield high star rattled the backboards for 12 points in the opening half to give his club a 20 to 13 lead.

Even Morgan's sharpshooting failed to dent the Queen Bees' spirit, and midway in the final half the club had climbed within three points of the lead. But the winners tipped in five points in rapid succession to ice the affair. Morgan was high-point man with 15 points.

The Billiards, with Bogantz going on a one-man scoring spree, never had any trouble with the Ashland club. The losers tallied only four times from the field. The Cuemen shot into an overwhelming, 26 to 4, lead at the half and it was all over. Semple was the only Ashlander to secure more than one bucket, getting five points. Every member of the Billiards scored as least a point.

Pulls Surprise.

Ralph's Snappy Service team pulled the surprise of the evening by downing the Lakewood Merchants.

The score was knotted, 13-all at the half, and Lakewood broke away to grab a 21 to 15 lead midway in the last half, but was unable to hold it.

With Vic Gillis pacing the rally, the Marion club soon overcame the advantage and with a minute to play, was leading, 29 to 26. Gillis topped the winners with nine points, while McGraw led the losers with the same number. Kenny Noble, Lakewood guard, was unable to play due to illness.

All teams participating in tonight's games will receive awards. Prizes will also be presented to the individual single game and tournament high scorer.

GARDEN TOYS WITH IDEA OF BACKING PRO RACES.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK — Madison Square Garden, which recently has been constrained to accept an ignominious role with all the red blooded sporting atmosphere of a rental agency, has been eyeing those $40,000 gates at the amateur track meets here and is of a mind to set itself up against the A. A. U. next winter, the writer has considerable reason to believe today. Briefly, it would—if the prospectus looks sufficiently inviting — revive professional running, notably at the one mile distance which, indoors, with the Cunningham-Venzke-San Romani trio, has been a source of respectable revenue during recent years.

Glenn Cunningham, I'm told, has been approached, indirectly and very tentatively. The idea, in fact, was broached through a second party some weeks ago at a time when Cunningham was in the throes of running up some ten straight victories.

Now that he has blistered the boards up at Hanover, N. H., to an all-time, all-low record of 4:04 4-10 for the mile, the project probably is seething into a slow boil in somebody's mind over there in the Garden.

THE original script called for a series of match races between Cunningham and Sydney Wooderson, the Englishman who holds the world's outdoor record of 4:06 4-10, and while nobody, least of all me, wants to speak for a man who's three thousand miles away, the claim is that Wooderson, a clerk, could be persuaded to come to America as a professional. In fact, they say that's the only way he would come here.

Roughly, the plan would be to drop the pair into two or three match races at the Garden during the winter and, meantime, send them out on tour, much in the manner of Perry and Vines in professional tennis and Sonja Henie and others on the ice.

Selects Allen For Opener

ALEXANDRIA, La.—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt announced today he plans to use Johnny Allen in the opening game of the season April 19 in Cleveland Stadium against the St Louis Browns. He wants his right-handed ace to cover the seven-inning distance twice before the bell rings.

For the first time this spring the Indians were rained out in a major league exhibition game yesterday, and prepared to move on to Monroe, La., when Allen and Harder will share the pitching duties against the New York Giants

'Blackie' Holds Down Second for Syracuse

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

LITTLE Wayne Blackburn, who played on "Chief" Ziegler's Westinghouse club of three years ago, has just about earned himself the second base job on the Syracuse club of the International league, according to reports from the southlands. "Blackie" has been protecting the right side of the infield with Jim Bottomley, who is piloting the Chiefs, in the spring games . . . If Joe Gordon is to help the Yankees repeat in the American league, he will have to do a lot better than he has done in the south *

"With a 246 batting average and five errors in 16 games," a New York scribe scribbles, "the only thing Gordon has in common with old 'Poosh 'em opp' is that they both use a knife and fork when they sit down to a table."

Jimmy Thomson was privately clocked while winning the Los Angeles Open Pot pitch shots of 100 yards and less, he looked at the ball and flag eight times, consuming an average of 35 seconds. He took an average of 60 seconds on his long approach putts.

THEATER

THE death knell was sounded this week for the peace and quiet of the M-G-M studios with the signing of Harpo, Chico and Groucho Marx for another picture. They are now finishing their current "Room Service" at the R. K. O. lot. Besides starring in the Metro productions of "A Day at The Races" and "A Night At The Opera," these Mad Marxes are the ones who brought insanity to that studio when they rode a horse into the executive offices of the most dignified officials, and broiled real steaks in the swanky fireplace of another. These and sundry other bits of nonsense bring terror to the hearts of officials whenever the Marxes march onto a lot. They have made seven wild comedies in all, starting with "The Cocoanuts" and then "Animal Crackers."

Real Life Characters.

In the characters in "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" Mark Twain recreated the friends of his boyhood. It was written in the days when authors weren't forced to protect themselves with the line "any resemblance of these characters to actual persons is purely accidental." Twain never concealed the fact that he was Tom Sawyer and that Aunt Polly was his own mother; nor that Huck Finn was in reality Tom Blackenship of Hannibal, Mo., while Becky Thatcher was Mark's childhood sweetheart, Laura Hawkins. The immortalized "Becky" lived to be 90 years old, dying in 1928. So long as Twain and "Becky" lived they kept up a friendly correspondence. and in 1902 when Twain last visited in Hannibal, he spent the time driving around old familiar scenes with John Briggs who is the "Joe Harper" of the story. The picturized characters are seen this week at the Ohio.

It Has Been Done.

If Dick Foran makes good in straight dramatic films after a well established career as a hero of Westerns, he won't be the first player who has accomplished that difficult metamorphosis. Gary Cooper played in several Westerns before he crashed the big time feature films, and Randolph Scott was a Western hero when he first came to Hollywood. Foran makes his first definite break in "Over The Wall," film version of Warden Lewis E. Lawes' drama of Sing Sing prison, which is current at the Madison. Foran is railroaded into prison and there things happen because he can't adjust himself to prison life.

Ballew and Gehrig.

There's war on the range, with a gun-tottin' cowboy and a fist swingin' baseball hero moving in to fight the rustlers in "Rawhide," which opens at the Majestic today. Gehrig and his sister, Evalyn Knapp, desert New York City for a cattle ranch near Rawhide, Ariz. And here they meet up with Smith Ballew, town lawyer and singer of cowboy laments. The racketeering "Cattlemen's Protective Association" starts the action to rolling, but it's Ballew and Gehrig that stops it. Gehrig gets several opportunities to demonstrate his thrilling prowess with the "pill." Anna Lee and John Loder, English players, are starred in the English film, "Non Stop New York" on the same bill.

He's Star Now.

When Robert Taylor played a small romantic roll in Will Rogers' "Handy Andy," no one guessed, much less the former Nebraska college boy, that he was slated for a stardom that would make him one of the most hotly discussed screen idols of his day. Even in "Handy Andy" he attracted attention because of his unusual good looks—which have since caused him plenty of grief. Mary Carlisle is seen opposite him in support of the star. Rogers is a small town pharmacist, satisfied with his pills and pestle until an ambitious wife suddenly changes his quiet life. The picture, re-issued, is being shown at the Ritz today and Saturday, along with a Western, Buck Jones in "Sudden Bill Dorn."

HOLD WOODSMAN AS MURDERER

Police Say Wisconsin Widow Blames Suitor In Slaying of High School Boy.

(By United Press)

SPOONER, Wis. — Everett Phinn, 52, a woodsman, was held in the county jail, implicated by his middle-aged sweetheart in the slaying of 17-year-old Raymond Washkuhn whom he believed his rival in love.

Authorities took Phinn into custody after questioning his sweetheart, Mrs. Phoebe Whaley, a widow.

Washkuhn, a senir high school student, boarded at Mrs. Whaley's home during the school term. He was shot down as he left the house to go downtown.

"Mrs. Whaley named Phinn as Washkuhn's assailant," the sheriff said. "She told me she had been intimate with Phinn and that he was jealous because the youth lived in her home."

Phinn denied knowledge of the slaying. Mrs. Whaley, mother of two children, was held at a material witness.

Investigators at first believed Washkuhn was the victim of a $10 extortion plot, but abandoned that angle later.

LEADERS SPURT 1 TO 5 POINTS IN BUYING WAVE

Allied Chemical, DuPont Issues Show Major Gains In Vigorous Rally.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market rallied vigorously today, leaders spurting 1 to 5 points under a first-hour buying wave that forced the high-speed ticker behind for a time.

Stocks were higher from the start, the upswing gaining momentum mid-way through the first hour. Steels, coppers, chemicals, building shares, motors, electrical equipment and farm implements were the strongest groups.

The advance was stalled before noon, as buying dried up for the time being, but leaders held close to their extreme high into the afternoon.

At the morning peaks, Allied Chemical and duPont were up about 5 points; Westinghouse more than 4; and Sears Roebuck, Bethlehem, International Harvester, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Chrysler, U. S. Gypsum and Johns-Mannville each 3 or more. Eastman Kodak jumped almost 7 points at one time, but this was halved later.

Coppers were up 2 or more points. Similar gains were registered by U. S. Steel, General Electric, Santa Fe, Case and Air Reduction.

CONGRESS QUIZ MOVES AHEAD

Donahey Seen as Selection for Chairman of Joint TVA Probe Committee.

other southern states in the Tennessee valley.

Unopposed to Probe.

As to the congressional investigation, there has been little opposition to it. Leaders have urged that it be conducted fairly and by an impartial group. They believe the investigation will reflect to the credit of the TVA, rather than to disclose discrepancies of accounts, mismanagement or dishonesty.

An indication of the popularity of the TVA in Tennessee is shown by the attitude of the various political groups and factions, with which Tennessee is burdened. All of these groups have, and continue to claim that they do and will give their unqualified support to the TVA. This pledge is always one of the first and most talked of in the platform of any political race in the state, whether city, county, or state.

Not only does each faction claim to be the principal supporter of the TVA in the state, but each claims that the other is anti-TVA. This is considered the worst stigma that can be hurled at an opponent.

Another indication of how firmly the people of Tennessee subscribe to the TVA is the fact that on all occasions in elections in which TVA principles or problems have been involved, the side most strongly for the TVA has won.

Wins Eelections.

This factor was particularly noticeable in the last gubernatorial election nearly two years ago, when Gov. Gordon Browning, Democratic nominee, and Pat Thach, of Chattanooga, Republican nominee, both declared themselves strongly for TVA. Also, in winning the Democratic nomination, Governor Browning claimed he was for the TVA and that his bitter opponent, Burgin E. Dossett, was opposed to TVA. Dossett made similar charges against Browning, and each claimed the other was secretly in league with opponents of the TVA.

While the Republican program has been more or less anti-TVA throughout the country, the party in Tennessee has feared to come out in open opposition to the Authority, because of its tremendous popularity with the people of the state, and has relied on newspapers and other means of taking digs at the TVA through unfavorable publicity, which have brought considerable disfavor in the state Republican ranks.

Already the TVA is Knoxville's biggest single industry. The payroll in the Knoxville area alone is now $435,517 monthly, or more than $100,000 a week. There are 2,265 persons employed by the TVA, of which 1,802 live in Knoxville, and most of the others are employed in Tennessee or nearby states. Office requirements for the TVA are 254,000 square feet, the biggest requirements in Tennessee outside the state government.

REACH PEACE IN TRAM STRIKE

Detroit Operators Agree to Return After Mass Meeting.

DETROIT — (INS) — Striking street car men today voted to end the motor city's one day transportation strike that left the city completely without street car service.

The strikers voted at the end of a three and a half hour mass meeting to accept Mayor Richard W. Reading's peace proposal endorsed by their five-man strike committee early this morning.

The vote to end the strike was nearly unanimous.

Detroit street railway commission members said street car services will be resumed immediately.

DEBATE OPENS

PARIS—(INS)—In an atmosphere hostile to Premier Blum, debate on his demand for full financial powers opened in the senate shortly before 4 p. m. today.

With Blum's downfall an apparent certainty, 1,000 policemen and 500 mobile guards guarded the senate palace, while thousands lined up trying to enter the packed chamber.

EXTENDS CIVIL SERVICE IN CITY

Board's Orders Affects All Unclassified Employes on Muny Payroll.

low within the next few weeks, Biddle said. The commisison has not yet decided whether competitive examinations will be held or whether the present staff will automatically be placed under the classification.

Civil service regulations specify that all employes under civil service must have been a resident of the city for one year before their appointment.

Freh H. Huber, chairman of the commisison, explained that the action had been taken in order to place those city employes not classified, under some supervision. He said there was some question as to the status of several employes who had been living outside of the city and said he was of the opinion that Mansfield citizens were entitled to municipal jobs.

The other member of the commisison is Dr. L. C. Benedict.

Agitation for the extension of civil service among city employes was started by the Mansfield Trades council last July when they presented a petition to city council.

After five months of study by a special council committee, the problem was dumped into the lap of the civil service commission. At the time the petition was drafted by Trades council, Atty. Biddle, was counsel for the organization.

ALLOTS FUNDS

County School Head Sends $29,455 to 13 Districts.

Allocations totaling $29,455 in state school foundation funds had been made today to Richland county's 13 rural school districts by Boyd Robinson, county superintendent.

The funds represent half of the December allocation which was delayed because the state lacked money to distribute to the local districts.

The Bellville district profited most in the latest allotment, receiving $4,797, while the Butler schools were next with $4,014.

Others were:

Madison township, $3,941; Lexington, $3,409; Springfield township, $2,767; Union rural, $2,459; Plymouth village, $2,002; Cass township, $1,899; Monroe township, $1,454; Butler rural, $1,304; Mifflin township, $735; Bloomingrove township, $594; and Washington township, $74.

The number of trench silos in Texas has increased from 12 to more than 8,000 in the last eight years.

A NEW WASHER?
YOU MUST THINK I'M MADE OF MONEY!
BUT, JIM, OUR OLD WASHER WON'T GET THINGS WHITE ANY MORE. JUST LOOK AT THESE NAPKINS! THEY'RE POSITIVELY GRAY!
GRAY OR NO GRAY— WE SIMPLY CAN'T AFFORD A NEW WASHER! AND THAT'S FINAL!
WHAT IN THE WORLD! WHY AREN'T YOU USING YOUR WASHER?
IT'S JUST ABOUT ON ITS LAST LEGS— SO I'VE HAD TO GO BACK TO SCRUBBING AND BOILING UNTIL I CAN PERSUADE JIM TO GET A NEW ONE.
BUT DARLING, HOW PRIMITIVE! WHY DON'T YOU TRY THAT NEW SOAP DISCOVERY— OXYDOL? IT GETS CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER, EVEN IN OLD MACHINES.
BUT AREN'T THOSE GRANULATED SOAPS AWFULLY HARSH?
NOT OXYDOL— IT'S A NEW ONE THAT'S SAFETY ITSELF. I'VE WASHED THIS COLORED DRESS IN IT FOR MONTHS AND IT'S STILL BRIGHT AS CAN BE.
I'LL ORDER SOME NOW.
LATER
IT'S A MIRACLE! JUST EIGHT MINUTES BY THE CLOCK AND THESE CLOTHES ARE SO WHITE THEY FAIRLY SPARKLE!
THAT'S BECAUSE OXYDOL SOAKS OUT DIRT WHILE THE WASHER IS RUNNING. YOU GET DOUBLE-ACTION WASH!
SAY, BEAR, THESE PAJAMAS ARE WHITE AS SNOW! I DON'T REALLY NEED A NEW WASHING MACHINE AFTER ALL...
THAT'S RIGHT! FINDING OXYDOL WAS JUST LIKE FINDING MONEY— THE WAY IT PUT NEW LIFE INTO THAT OLD WASHING MACHINE.

"LIKE GETTING A NEW WASHER FREE"

—Say Women of This New, SAFE Miracle Soap

NOW—see white things come 4 to 5 shades whiter in old machine or new! For scientific tests of OXYDOL against other soaps reveal these important things:—

First:—One cup of OXYDOL makes as much rich, lively suds as 3 cupfuls of other soaps tested (chips, bars and granulated soaps).

Second:—Cup for cup, OXYDOL washed clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter and brighter than other soaps tested—including less efficient GRANULATED soaps.

In Tub Washing, OXYDOL's brisk suds soak out dirt in 15 minutes—without scrubbing or boiling. (Even "tough" spots come clean with a quick rub.) Yet OXYDOL is SAFE for hands—safe for all washable colors.

So don't blame your old washer if clothes come dingy gray. Switch to OXYDOL—and see everything come so much brighter you'll say "it's like getting a new washer free!"

Get OXYDOL today. Procter & Gamble.

FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1938.

Twenty-one years have passed since the United States entered the World war—THIS is the future!

Statistics showing reduction in traffic deaths are not consoling to those who have lost a loved one as a result of reckless driving.

Another schoolboy has been discovered who writes upside down and backward—and if he also thinks that way he may sometime be elected to high office.

Reminder of Pioneer Days.

CELEBRATING the 150th anniversary of the first permanent settlement in the Northwest territory, the federal government and the five states of this region are putting on a continuous show which began last December and will end next fall. Thirty-seven college men started in Massachusetts with five horses, two oxen, a Conestoga wagon, fringed leather coats, coonskin caps and all the rest, to follow the trail of the Marietta settlers.

They have been presenting a pageant at different stops along the way and will continue in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota during the next six months, reaching Mansfield on Monday, May 2.

These young men are not experiencing the hardships and trials of the men who blazed the trail. The United States army has lent a launch to push their barge on the rivers. They move through a wealthy, populous region with all the comforts and conveniences of 1938 available to them. They are not pioneers.

The purpose of the trip is educational. It is a picturesque program designed "to promote popular interest in and knowledge of American history, government and institutions," and it has been succeeding in that aim from the first.

It may accomplish something more, reminding Americans that the future is theirs to build as they will. The coming 150 years, lived by new generations of Americans as keen and determined as their predecessors, should see changes and advancement as striking as those of the past, although along different lines.

Saving the Railroads.

THE sickest of our big industries today is probably the railroads. For years they have been ailing, even when times were good for other industries. Lately, with about one-third of them in receivership and most of the others losing money and running down in equipment, they seem to be approaching a climax of misfortune.

The big trouble of the railroads in the old days was too much financial juggling. The trouble in recent years may have been too much government. There will probably be still more government rather than less, and they may even succumb to public ownership sooner or later, but nearly everybody wants to stave that off as long as possible.

For the immediate future, it is clear that some drastic action is needed, as railroad men themselves admit. Costs are too great, income too small, and equipment run down. There will have to be some refinancing, some elimination of obsolete and duplicated lines, possibly some more rate increases, and large spending for modernization and replacements.

Help for the railroads might turn out to be one of the most effective ways to overcome this depression.

Remember to Feed the Birds.

THAT March touch of spring, followed by April winter, has worked a considerable hardship on migratory birds that are accustomed to fly south in the fall and return in early spring.

Almost every variety of bird common here in summer has already been seen, but many of these find their customary food supply cut off by snow and ice.

In addition to the charm of their appearance, birds perform a valuable service in protecting plant life against various pests.

This is the season when thoughtful persons will remember to throw out a little food for the birds. It is suggested that, in addition to bread scraps, suet, meat rinds, grains and seeds be put in sheltered places. Sunflower seeds are said to be particularly good for cardinals and blue jays.

And it is a good idea, also, to protect birds against marauding cats. "A bell for every cat" might well be adopted as a slogan by bird lovers.

Preserving the Old Tunes.

CONTROVERSY aroused by the jazzing and "swinging" of old, beloved songs is growing louder. One indignant patriot writes:

"If unchecked, probably the swing-mad radioers will be trying to pep up 'Nearer My God to Thee,' 'Lead, Kindly Light' and other fine hymns, and invading our churches with big apple dances and leering saxophones.

"These songs, and many popular songs almost as sacred, do not belong to the swingers. They belong to us and our forebears who composed them, and they are woven deep into our hearts.

"If the air must be cluttered up with unearthly howlings and yelpings of the instruments of swing and jazz, for goodness' sake let the jazz-minded create their own songs, and not debauch those which were produced by their betters."

The language is violent but the cause is just. To people who love the old songs, the familiar music is as precious as the words. Why should anyone take such liberties with it as some of the swing artists have been taking? Let them compose new swing tunes as much as they like; but they have no more artistic right to change the old tunes than they would have to change the wording of familiar poems.

Use of cameras is forbidden at old Fort Sumter—so any foreign spies that may be hobnobbing with tourists must depend on souvenir postcards for their dope.

According to Robert Quillen: "Our nation will return to good horse sense some day"—but not while we depend on the buggy.

Hitler is underestimated, according to an American writer—and the mustache probably has something to do with it.

Einstein says science will soon have a new concept of matter—then we may find out what's the matter.

The Pacific ocean seems to need a big U. S. navy to make it live up to its name.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

MEN have begun to wonder concerning the 1940 presidential campaign. The closest observers do not like the looks of it. The same forces at work in the remainder of the world have begun to grip the United States.

Liberalism may be fighting for its life against an American form of Fascism in 1940. On the Liberal side, these observers see the Roosevelts, the La Follettes, the Norrises, the Lewises—on the other side, certain forces that now are battling every Roosevelt or liberal endeavor with a cry of "dictatorship" or "communism."

President Roosevelt probably will not be a factor after 1940. He already is a tired fighter.

That analysis may anger many persons—but that is the view being discussed quietly by men who usually are cautious and able observers.

They believe that some of the persons now shouting "dictator" at President Roosevelt may switch around after 1940 and "demand" a dictator—"to protect us" from "radicals."

That may be a queer picture of America—but it is a queer world these days. It reminds one of H. G. Wells' new book, "The Brothers." In this story, Wells "foresees" a Fascist-Communist war in Europe, with brother arrayed against brother. The Fascist leader, winning and becoming dictator, cannot stop what he has begun and is slain by the same gun that kills his Communist brother in the hands of a misguided patriot.

HOOVER?

There has been much talk of a Republican nomination for former President Hoover in 1940. But the very staunch conservatives, who insist upon wiping out every vestige of the New Deal, believe Hoover is too liberal! That is, on international affairs. He has approximately the Roosevelt outlook on that. And they do not believe he has the magnetic power necessary to endow domestic conservatism to the public's liking.

Yet, business itself, which prefers quiet conservatism and fears Fascism, would like to have Mr. Hoover or Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. Such men, however, may lack the flash "necessary" in a world afire with emotions.

Oh, there is much inner talk these days of 1940!

But the old-line politicians on both sides are very nervous. They do not understand these new forces. They begin to discuss or attack issues in the old manner—and, lo, the discussions leap out of their hands and become religious and ideologic battles.

That brings concern not merely to political leaders, but to great groups of citizens, of all faiths.

Speech has become exceedingly violent in the United States over current domestic affairs. In what other country in the world can the radio be given over, as to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, for nation-wide attacks in vitriolic language on the head of the nation? Yet, despite the incitement, this free speech may in the end permit the people to hear all sides—as is intended in a democracy.

But people can be carried away by emotions—and are, even though temporarily. "Temporarily," in the case of nations, may mean two decades. Perhaps a century.

EUROPEAN TIES

Observers have been worried most lately over the apparent close emotional ties that the United States has with Europe.

"Foreign entanglements," in other words, can come without a single treaty or understanding.

Americans have become extremely emotional over events in Europe. It has been even "dangerous" to mention Spain—or Germany.

Yet unless the problems posed by the changing affairs in Europe are studied and discussed calmly in the United States, we may be plunged into the terrible vortex along with the other unfortunate nations. Observers discuss that phase quietly behind the scenes. The state department is the most important department of the American government at the moment—and, at times, Secretary of State Cordell Hull looms more important (in regard to our destinies) than does Roosevelt.

GROWING TENDENCY

A tendency to take sides and call names instead of getting down to basic causes and working out from there has grown at an alarming pace in the United States. That has been the trouble elsewhere in the world. If it continues, democracy and civilization will disappear in the flames of a hell in which brother will slay brother in the name of ideology that has become a religion—a new kind of "religious wars." At least, that is a growing fear.

To the dismay of millions of Americans, those factors are entering our own political campaigns and our congressional debates and actions.

BEARING DOWN!

Hoover's Place as 'Elder Statesman'

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Who could have expected to see Herbert Hoover staging something as least faintly resembling a come-back?

No longer ago than 1936, when the G. O. P. was feeling vaguely around for a passable suitability as a presidential nominee, Republicanism's voice, with practical "unamity, was, "Anybody but Hoover." Even a few months back, when certain Hamiltonian leaders were fumbling for a party reorganization plan and the Californian expressed a friendly interest in their effort, all their faces fell and the verdict was, "Pshaw, the scheme's doomed since HE'S in favor of it."

Yet following the former president's broadcast, just after his recent European tour, the echo is still ringing, "By gosh, what a dandy speech!"

NO NOMINATION.

Not that Dr. Hoover (he got his Ph. D. degree while abroad) will be presidentially nominated in 1940 or thereafter.

However, he seems to have qualified for national recognition as a highly respected "elder statesman"—an INFLUENCE of a deal of potency, and not of NEW DEAL potency, either; the reverse.

He is reputed to have had his speeches written FOR him, like lots of other public men, when he was in the White House. This last one appears to have been his own product. Maybe he did himself an injustice by delegating the job to underlings in the past.

TIMELY TALK.

It was a speech "per se."

All editorial comment that I have seen speaks highly of it. It is warmly commended by senators and representatives—Democrats as well as Republicans. In fact, many New Deal appointees praise it, as audibly as they dare.

It was rather optimistic, and folk can stand plenty of optimism at present.

And timely! Its timeliness was an accident, of course. The thing simply synchronized with President Roosevelt's dictatorship disavowal. If the Hoover address had come 24 hours later than it did, it would have implied an answer to "F. D.'s" declaration. But it came before the ex-president possibly could have anticipated his successor's statement. It was an answer IN ADVANCE.

HOOVER'S VIEW.

Dr. Hoover said, in effect:

"Dictatorships are not so very deliberate.

"Some situation arises which needs to be counteracted, and legislation is required to counteract it. Such legislation proves to be ineffective without more legislation to support it. This secondary legislation proves ineffective also without still MORE legislation. The sequence goes on and on until a dictatorship exists, scarcely intentionally."

That is Dr. Hoover's account.

AS HE SEES IT.

And Dr. Hoover did not assert that the New Deal is moving in a dictatorial direction.

He merely described what he saw in Europe.

It is conceded that he is a good judge. One of the complaints of him always has been that he understands conditions abroad better than he does here.

If anyone chooses to draw conclusions, let him draw his own.

WILL THIS OCCUR.

The New Deal's No. 3 legislation has been called for to make No. 2 legislation work; No. 2 legislation has been called for to make No. 1 legislation work. And No. 4 legislation is called for to make No. 3 legislation work.

Who knows how No. 4 legislation will work?

And who knows how many 5's, 6's, et cetera, are to ensue?

This is the question that Dr. Hoover hints at.

STEWART'S VIEW.

Dr. Hoover, as president, ran into a depression that he could not help—and did not know how to cure, either.

President Roosevelt momentarily ran into an improvement that, evidently, he was entitled to no credit for, and now he faces a recession that also is a mystery to him.

"Planned economy" sounds all right.

It is only preliminary to Nazism or Fascism, according to ex-President Hoover.

He is only just beginning to get himself listened to.

It serves him right for not being a more popular orator earlier.

Facts About Indigestion.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

A friend of mine recently asked whether it is a common thing to confuse indigestion with some disease of the heart. Her mother had suffered from attacks which had been thought to be caused by indigestion. It developed later that she actually had high blood pressure and heart disease.

This mistake is not unusual among laymen. As a matter of fact, many of the sudden deaths we read about are due to neglect of heart ailments, as well as of other serious disorders. The underlying ailments are often neglected because they are confused with indigestion.

Let me tell you something about indigestion. As you know, it is a common complaint and usually accepted as a trivial ailment. Usually it is explained as the result of some indiscretion in diet.

Faulty Habits.

Even when attention is given to the diet, the so-called indigestion may persist. But in many cases it is not the food, but the result of faulty eating habits. One who hurries through a meal or bolts his food without proper chewing is very likely to suffer from gas, with the discomfort it produces.

It is not uncommon to taste the food for several hours after a hasty meal. This is usually described as a symptom of indigestion. Bolting the food and eating at irregular hours are two factors sure to cause distress.

What we call indigestion may exist independent of the food or the manner of eating. It may be the result of an irritation or inflammation of the stomach. Then it must be regarded as nature's warning that there exists an ulcer of the stomach, a tumor or something even more serious.

Is Vague Term.

You will see that the term "indigestion" is a pretty vague one. It is a condition which may be due to one of many causes. But no matter what the cause it is unwise to accept it as something trivial. Its presence demands medical investigation. Neglect of it may prove serious.

If you suffer from persistent heartburn, gas or other symptoms of indigestion, take inventory of your eating habits. If you have been careless in the choice of your food, it is best to reform and begin to avoid all fried and greasy foods.

A change in eating habits may overcome the discomfort.

If, in spite of these precautions, you still suffer from "biliousness" and discomfort, please consult your doctor. He will give the special examinations and tests needed to determine the exact cause of the trouble.

Admires Originality.

Editor News-Journal:

Originality with a capital O. Speaking of originality, I'm referring to a Walnut street show window.

To my knowledge, never in the history of window decorating has there ever been anything quite so spectacular and realistic. What was it that drew crowds to this window today? The playing pipes! People will pause and listen to the soft, sweet strains of organ music, which in all reality seems to be floating from the golden pipe organ that is displayed.

Truly at this particular season of the year what could be more fitting than the actual interior of a church displaying its tall, stately Easter lilies, and the genuine tones of a true-to-life pipe organ.

Originality always takes first prize and I think we all can say this window has walked away with the honors!

Listen, World!

He That Giveth His Life Shall Keep It!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THAT strange, brief triumph Jesus knew six days before He died. We miss the mystery, often, for the waving of the palms!

Now, at last, He had conquered. Or so it seemed to those who thronged the narrow streets of Bethany. What memories must have filled Him as He heard those songs and cries! Memories of three hard years, all racked with pain and loneliness . . . fierce persecution . . . and misunderstanding, sharper than a knife.

Stared at and spat on by the ones who'd known Him as a lad . . . who said He had become a cheat and a charlatan. Spied on by Roman soldiers and the Hebrew priests. An outcast "without a place to lay His head."

But now the tide had turned! The story of His miracles had swept the land. How He had driven devils into herds of swine . . . and given sight again to those who'd been born blind . . . and cleaned the loathsome leper's rotting flesh . . . and raised their neighbor Lazarus from death! Surely such marvels proved He was a God . . . the long-awaited "Saviour of the Jews!"

And now He rested overnight in Bethany, to go tomorrow to Jerusalem, where six days hence the Jews would hold the Passover. And hearing He was there, the crowd had swarmed in from the desert, down from gullied hills, and from the sea . . . to touch and hail and welcome their new King.

And all night long they'd peered and cheered and watched beside their fires. And with the morning, they had brought an ass that He might ride, as fitted kingly state . . . and passed out palms for all the throng to wave. And so He started, on wild waves of song . . . on cheers where, but a few days since, He'd known jeers.

JESUS, THE KING! THEY BORE HIM TO HIS THRONE.

But, in His Heart He knew they bore Him to His death.

And that these very ones who now were waving palms, and tussling to see which one should kiss His feet, would shortly follow, when He went to die, and shout as loudly as when they saw His blood!

Yet, even so, His pitying heart went out. And He saw many deaths beside His own—

The deaths of those who, also, die betrayed . . . of those who, also, give their lives in love . . . of those who labor truly, giving all they have, yet in this cruel world find no reward.

He thought of those . . . of all their hopeless pain . . . and how there was no one to comfort them. And so, while hundreds shouted and the green palms waved, He bent—and looked upon worn flesh and faded eyes—and gave the sweetest comfort ever God gave man.

"Do not think that it is all in vain," He said. "Do not think you have suffered for nothing, and sacrificed for nothing, and given all you have without recompense. For, though some say you have wasted yourselves, I say you have saved yourself. And though some may say you are lost, I say you are saved!

"Verily, verily I say unto you—Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth this life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

Then He was still. And there came only the soft rustling of the palms.

But down the ages, His brave words sweep on.

Timely Editorial

Warned By Lawsuits.

With no intention of seeming to pass on the merits of lawsuits in which it is alleged that liquor served to a minor precipitated a traffic death and injuries for which civil damages are sought from cafe owners, we can believe that if this type of litigation is to be common, the trade will be inclined to a stricter compliance with the liquor laws than the public agencies for its control have been able to exact.

If, in addition, the fashion spreads of tracing personal injuries to abuses of the liquor code, and making them the bases for suits for damages, as was contemplated in the present act when it was drawn with precisely this object in view, the trade will lose no time in making a virtue of necessity and holding itself to a higher degree of law observance than the traffic has so far known under repeal.—Detroit News.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Catastrophe"—Upside Down.

An earthquake is a catastrophe, a flood is a catastrophe: a destructive explosion is a catastrophe.

There are many other sorts of catastrophe; but it is with the sense of physical upheaval, especially with undertones of direction, movement up and down, that the word is freighted.

For "catastrophe," though now used synonymously with "disaster," "calamity" and "misfortune" stems from a combination of two Greek words meaning "upside down," the root verb signifying "to overturn;" hence the word's many figurative usages."

Everyday Poems

REGARDING THE TIMID

In paragraphs I talk with you,
So much I have to say;
You, silently, draw forth my heart.
It was but yesterday

That, timid, I could utter but
A word, a word or two,
Now sentences flow easily
Here, as I speak with you.

I wonder is timidity
Perhaps the listener's fault?
If it is not in truth that which Makes doubtful speakers halt?

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

One little hint is often worth more than a ton of advice.

An ounce of reality is worth a pound of romance.

It's climbing hills before they come to them that makes some people tired.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—9:25 p. m. . . . It is a very black night. . . . The telephone in an east side clinic jangles sharply, and a young interne lifts the receiver. . . . "When did this happen?" he says into the transmitter, after a pause. . . . Well, don't move her. I'll be there directly."

He hangs up the receiver. . . . "Where is 214 M avenue, Miss Stephens?" . . . The nurse thinks for a minute. . . . "It's a bad neighborhood, doctor. . . . Perhaps someone should go with you."

The doctor slips off his white jacket and puts on a heavy coat . . . He goes out chuckling to himself.

Red light, stop. . . . Green light. . . . The old car cuts across town, emerges into Chatham Square, edges out to the left, to what is known as the Syrian quarter, but what really is the great sprawling settlement of mixed Europeans and Asiatics. . . . He turns into a narrow, dark street where abandoned warehouses are like great empty blobs of gloom. . . . There are a few houses. . . . There are no lights. . . . On an empty corner a cat sends up its half-human, eerie cry. . . . "I'll need my flashlight," murmurs the doc. . . . For some reason he has an odd presentiment of—well, it certainly is a gloomy night!

THERE is, suddenly a flashlight in his face. . . . "Just come with me," a voice tells him. . . . "This way. . . . Now, step carefully." . . . The doc shrugs. . . . But he is thinking fast.

The man leads the way up a pair of stairs and into a room in which no light shows. . . . In the vague shadows are human beings, two by two. . . . They are as silent as waxen images. . . . They sit there and say nothing. . . . In the shadows the doc bites his lip, and curses.

"This way," the man tells him. . . . Another man has fallen in behind the doctor. . . . The man who does the talking leads the way. . . . His flashlight is playing against a darkened hallway now. . . . They follow it, and come to a stairs. . . . They go down these stairs, into a basement, which is blacker than the East river's muddy bottom. . . . The doctor swallows in an effort to relieve the tightness at his throat. . . . To lunge out suddenly and chance all on a blow, and a dash up the stairs?

HE THINKS: "This is it. . . . They've got me. . . . This is it, all right."

"See here," says the man with the light. "There it is." . . . He plays the beam on a black meter box against the wall. . . . "A fuse must have burned out. . . . All the lights went out about a half hour ago, and me with a poker party on upstairs!"

The doctor leans up against a post and fills his lungs with a sudden, full breath. . . . "Didn't you telephone for a doctor? Isn't this 214 M avenue?"

"Doctor? 214? Naw, this is 204. Ain't you an electrician?"

"I got a call from 214," the medico answers!

"Ge, Doc, I'm sorry. That's old lady Perkins. She must have another fainting spell. . . . She's the one who lives at 214. . . . But me, I'm looking for an electrician. . . . I got a poker party on upstairs. . . . I got seven guests."

SUED IN DEATH

Mansfielder Named Defendant In $10,000 Damage Suit.

L. F Hook, Mansfield, was named defendant today in a suit filed in common pleas court which seeks to collect $10 000 for the death of Mrs. Grace E Harper in an automobile accident last Oct. 17 near Watseka, Ill

Ernest E. Harper, of St Joseph county, Ind., administrator of the estate of Mrs. Harper, brought the action, charging in his petition that the defendant, as driver of the car in which Mrs. Harper was killed was under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident.

Harper contends further that Hook operated the car when Mrs. Harper was not aware of his condition and that the defendant is responsible for the accident in which she was killed. Mrs. Harper was a resident of St. Joseph county, Ind.

The average annual flood damage in Texas in the last 50 years was more than $2,200,000.

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, in a special message to congress, called for a comprehensive study of problems of preserving and developing public and private forest lands in the United States.

The message asked:

1. Study of the adequacy and effectiveness of present activities in protecting public and private forest lands from fire, insects and disease, and of co-operative efforts between the federal government and the states.

2 Other measures, federal and state, which may be necessary and advisable to insure that timber cropping on privately owned forest lands may be conducted as continuous operations with the productivity of the lands built up against future requirements

3. Examination of the need for extension of federal, state and community ownership of forest lands and their planned public management.

Asks Control Survey.

4 Study of the need for public regulatory controls adequately to protect private as well as broad public interests in all forest lands.

5. Study of methods and possibilities of employment in forestry work on private and public forest lands, and possibilities of liquidating such public expenditures which now are involved, or may be involved in the future.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended that the study be undertaken by a joint congressional committee and suggested definite action should be taken by congress in 1939.

"States, communities and private capital can do much to help—but the fact remains that with some outstanding exceptions, most of the states, communities and private companies have, on the whole, accomplished little to retard or check the continuing process of using up our forest resources without replacement," he said. "This being so, it seems obviously necessary to fall back on the last defensive line—federal leadership and federal action.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Friday, April 8. "I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven." Read Luke 10:17-20.

These are the words of a revolutionary. Only a man with a radical mind would have said them.

We should take heart from them. So often we are discouraged, even hypnotized, in the presence of the moral evils around us. We need to realize that such evil carries within it the germs of its own decay and downfall.

If I believe anything at all about this matter, I believe that in the long run evil must and will destroy itself. In the case of the vast and long-entrenched evils of human society this process may take many years We may not see the end of any given evil in our own time. But human slavery finally destroyed itself. And the institution of war—despite its immediate menace—is in the very process of destroying itself before our eyes. It cannot permanently survive the recoil of its own guns upon itself. Therefore we can work patiently and hopefully at all good causes, which by their nature have in them the principle and promise of eternal life, glancing up from time to time to see "Satan as lightning fall from heaven."

Prayer: Grant, O God, that when the strife is fierce and the battle long, we may hear songs of victory rising to greet us in a better, unborn day: through him who has made us more than conquerors, even Jesus Christ our Lord Amen.

VICTORY NEAR?

Chinese Rush Fresh Troops to Shell-Torn City.

SHANGHAI — (AP) — Chinese, rushing fresh, German-trained divisions into the 60-mile front across southern Shantung province, avowed today that victory was theirs at battered, shell-torn Taierhchwang.

The Chinese hailed troops of General Sun Lir-Chung's 31st division as heroes for pushing Japanese from Taierhchwang's northeast gate.

Chinese said the major remaining Japanese force was being attacked by General's Sun's two other columns, spread out in a triangle east from Taierhchwang.

Japanese, however, said their forces still remained within the city.

It became known also that transports from Tientsin recently carried 2,000 wounded and the ashes of 1,000 dead, an indication of Japanese casualties.

CRASH INJURIES FATAL

LIMA — (AP) — Injuries suffered when his car struck a disabled truck on the Dixie highway resulted in the death of Louis Huber, 28, of Piqua, in Bluffton hospital.

A Farmer's Diary

TODAY a high school boy came to me and said, with a deep sense of satisfaction and pride, "I saved a life this morning."

"Where?" I asked.

"Down along the sidewalk. I heard a flutter in the icy weeds, and there, by gosh, was a robin with such a heavy hunk of ice froze to his tail that he couldn't fly a bit. I pulled it off, and freed him."

This afternoon I walked out by the woodland. The icy crust was treacherous. I found it heavy going, and stopped to rest my tired ankles. The wind swayed the splintering, snapping branches of the trees overhead, but above the noise, I heard the sound like a wild bird caged, and at the base of a stump I found a robin with tail and farther wing frozen solid in a heavy crust of ice. When I freed the prisoner he flew to a tree and tried to perch upon a branch but slipped and fluttered to the ground. With one great effort he took to flight again and I saw him, finally, reach my neighbor's barn.

I came back across the open field. Some distance ahead I saw a tuft of last year's grass, glazed over perfectly. As I came near I heard a faint chirp. Looking through the clear ice, as though a window, I saw a meadow lark. I broke away the top and found the bird leaning on one side, limp and almost smothered. One leg far above the knee was frozen solid in the ice. I broke it loose and thawed the ice that clung, with my hands, as I walked homeward. The bird died before I reached the house.

Tonight I cannot sleep, although the house is warm and I am sheltered well. My heart is not here but roaming over the fields and frozen wastes. There is suffering and tragedy tonight for our feathered friends. Thousands of them will die, buried under the ruthless crust of icy snow. Let us feed the survivors well and invite them to nest about our lawns and porches.

"The summer came and all the birds were dead;
The days were like hot coals: the very ground
Was burned to ashes! in the orchard fed
Myriads of caterpillars, and round
The cultivated fields and garden beds
Hosts of devouring insects crawled and found
No foe to check their march till they had made
The land a desert without leaf or shade."

BABY PICTURES BRING LIFE BAN

Cities Halt Sale of Magazine With Camera Story of Childbirth.

NEW YORK—(CP)—Life magazine, with four pages of pictures illustrating childbirth, went on sale throughout the country today except in several New England cities and New Orleans, where it was censored or banned as "indecent."

Roy E. Larsen, publisher, said the censorships "apparently resulted from a misunderstanding," and that a test would be made today in New Haven, Conn., where a newsdealer was arrested for selling a copy of the magazine in violation of the state law against obscene literature.

CITY ISOLATED AS NEW SHEATH OF ICE FORMS

Utilities Lines Down as Loss Hits $50,000; 17 Dead In U. S. Floods, Tornadoes.

was estimated at $15,000 the greatest in the history of the company, he added.

Lisle said the entire maintenance force was working today to restore service, but added that it is doubtful of all telephones will be back in use for another week.

Loss of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Bell Telephone company passed the $10,000 mark. Only eight of 60 toll lines of the Bell company were open this morning, and patrons were asked to make their conversation brief on the lines which were in operation.

Damage to lines of the Ohio Public Service company in the county was estimated at more than $5,000 by R. D. Iden, distribution superintendent, who stated that approximately 1,500 homes are affected by the power failure. He said service would be restored in most localities by tonight.

The ice storm closed schools at Butler yesterday when power was shut off by a line break and the heating system could not be operated. The forced vacation extended over today while linemen worked to repair the damage.

Street lights were out all last night in the west and southwest sections of the city when tree branches fell over power lines.

Describing the storm as the worst in 15 years, Iden said 160 men were at work repairing the damage and that more would be brought in from other counties to speed up the return of service.

Damage to trees, which were splintered by the ice load over the entire north central Ohio area, could not be estimated in dollars. Streets in virtually every city and village in the Richland county section were cluttered with shattered shade trees and branches.

The heavy downpour kept roads free of ice and there was little interruption in traffic in the county due to the storm, Arthur Fletcher, county maintenance superintendent of the state highway department, said.

Battle Rising Streams.

A full crew of 47 highway workers battled to keep rising streams from flooding roads in the southern half of the county as broken tree branches, lodging against bridges and culverts, formed dams and forced the water out of the creek beds.

Fletcher said the worst affected area was along the Black Fork between Bellville and Butler. Unless heavy rains continue this afternoon, it is unlikely that any roads will be flooded, he added.

D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of city streets, said it will require two weeks to get all the debris cleared from streets. The condition is general over the city, he pointed out.

With a crew of 26 men and seven trucks at work at the clean-up job today, Orewiler added that "We got so many calls that we gave up trying to answer all of them and started in on the streets as we came to them."

Damage to Ohio crops from the cold and sleet was estimated today at $1,000,000, most of it resulting from broken trees rather than from the unseasonable cold. In Sandusky county, fruit growers reported early sour cherries were killed by the cold, but held hope for "a fair crop" of cherries of other varieties.

A gale whipped Lake Erie and flooded LaCarne, a summer resort near Port Clinton, washed away 20 feet of sea wall between Willow Beach and Camp Perry, Associated Press reports said.

Seven sections of piers between Sandusky and Vermilion were battered in what lake shore residents described as the worst gale since 1918.

13 Drowned in Georgia.

Tornadoes swept through sections of Alabama and Georgia late yesterday, killing 10 persons and injuring scores. At Whitestone, Ga., 13 persons, including 10 children, were drowned as flood waters swept a combination residence and store from its foundation. The building was tumbled into a stream.

Rescue parties attempted to reach seven children marooned in a school bus trapped in a Texas blizzard.

Temperatures dropped sharply in the storm-swept states, and at Leadville, Colo., it was 10 degrees below zero. Casper, Wyo., had eight below.

The mercury remained above freezing in the southern half of Ohio and there was no ice damage. The lake region likewise was free of heavy ice, but had from six to nine inches of snow.

Lowest temperature in Mansfield today was 31 and by noon the mercury had climbed to 36, causing the ice to loosen on telephone and power lines.

While train service was reported hampered in some sections of the state because of the inability of dispatchers to get messages through, Pennsylvania and Erie railroad officials in Mansfield said trains were arriving on schedule.

There were few accidents reported in the Mansfield district. Traffic was light and because of the danger from falling trees and branches, drivers proceeded with caution. Rural school bus drivers reported difficulty making their rounds and several of them chopped trees out of the roads to get through.

Mrs. C. E. Josephson, wife of the president of Heidelberg university at Tiffin, and Rev. A. K. Beisheim, pastor of St. John's Reformed church at Bucyrus, escaped with minor injuries late yesterday when the car in which they were riding went off the highway and turned over near Bucyrus. They were en route from Tiffin to Bucyrus where Mrs. Josephson was to fill a speaking engagement.

Ice Plays Havoc With Press Wires

The ice played havoc today with telegraphic newspaper services, when lines of the A. T. and T. went out between Mansfield and Columbus, Cleveland and Massillon.

All three wires serving The News-Journal, including the Associated Press, International News Service and United Press, were dead throughout the morning. Service on two of them had been restored by noon and all three were expected to be operating during the afternoon.

Associated Press copy was rushed here from Columbus by bus, while delivery cars went to Wooster to get International News Service copy from the Daily Record and to Mt. Vernon for United Press copy from the Republican-News. Sufficient copy was obtained to cover the important news developments during the night and morning.

WOMAN FREED

Police Hold Blood Clot, Not Beer Bottle, Killed Ohioan, 31.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Mrs. Bessie Baird, 37, was free today after police exonerated her from any connection with the death of Haward C. Minic, 31, who died four days after he was hit on the head with a beer bottle.

Coroner Edward Smith declared that Minic died of a blood clot on the brain and not from injuries received when struck by the bottle. Police declared Mrs. Baird admitted she hit Minic.

U. S. WILL HELP, BRITAIN SAYS

London Hears America Set to Furnish Warplanes If John Bull Should Need Them.

LONDON —(INS)— The government of the United States is prepared, if requested to do so, to supply military airplanes in huge quantities to equip the Royal Air Force, according to a report current in diplomatic circles today.

The Daily Telegraph this morning stated that information has reached the British government of this important development in the American attitude toward Britain's defense policy, adding:

"If Great Britain's need is urgent, the United States would interrupt the course of aircraft deliveries to its own air force so as to fulfill any contract placed by Britain."

The Daily Telegraph stated that the British government is studying "the important consideration which would arise should Britain, finding herself at war, be unable to obtain replacements of American aircraft because of neutrality laws which forbid the export of warlike material to belligerents."

"A broad hint has been given," the newspaper stated, "that should that contingency arise, the United States would find means of maintaining essential supplies for Britain."

BATTLE DRIFTS

Rescuers Seek 52 Missing In Texas Blizzard.

PAMPA, Tex.—(INS)—Fate of fifty-two persons, seven of them children, all unaccounted for in this section's worst blizzard in 15 years, remained uncertain today as rescue workers sought to open roads covered with deep snow drifts.

Authorities stated it would be impossible to determine for some time how many are safe. Highways in some places were under 15 feet of snow.

GREEK PASTOR'S HOPES REALIZED

Dreams He Cherished Since Boyhood Come True—He's In America.

asked through Miss Zaros.

"Americans" he answered in Greek and with expressive hands, "seem to be more interested in the mechanics and the scientific phases of everything, while in Greece stress is laid on the arts, the professions and the classics. The best chances for success in Greece are found in the arts while here there is wide opportunities in business and in sciences. Is it not so?"

He is particularly interested in philosophy and in poetry and hopes to find in Mansfield someone who can discuss these with him—when he has mastered English. The thing that has pleased him most in Mansfield is the friendliness and courtesy of the people. Both of these, he finds, are something that can be expressed without words.

He could not be pressed into a comparison of politics or economics.

"I am a theologian," he said simply, "and not a politician or economist." However, later in the conversation, he relayed a question as to which is the ideal form of government—a well organized monarchy or a democracy, and beamed at the answer. "I too," he said, "think a democracy is best and that the American democracy is the best in the world." He wasn't making a polite gesture; he meant it quite sincerely.

He has written many articles and poems for Greek newspapers published in New York City, and in several copies which he displayed, his writings against war were prominently played up on the front page. He has also had a number of pamphlets published in his native city of Agiassos, in the state of Mytilene.

With him in Mansfield is his attractive wife, Areti, and a round-faced, dark-eyed daughter of nine months, who has practically mastered two English words —"bye-bye," with appropriate gestures.

Mrs. Gougoutas' hospitality is as unpretentious as her husband's scholarliness. Every minute you are in her home she is concerned for your comfort, serving demitasses of thick, surypy Turkish coffee, and a delicious white confection made of cypress sap. The latter is served on a teaspoon emersed in a glass of cold water. The pungent taste of cypress stays with you for hours.

Both of them are eager to fit into the "American plan," to establish a home here, to learn American customs and language, and to give the small Vasoula an American education. The family resides at 72½ South Diamond street.

16 Millions Needed for Ohio Relief, Ferguson Says

STATE'S NEEDY LIST TOTALS 141,000 CASES

Auditor Says $4,803,000 All That's Left In Fund For Remaining 9 Months.

COLUMBUS—An estimate that Ohio and its subdivisions must raise between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 during the remainder of 1938 to prevent a breakdown in direct relief came today from State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson on the heels of a closed meeting of Ohio League of Municipalities officials.

Ferguson, basing his estimate on a study made by his relief expert, O. P. Van Schoik, said that the state's relief case load of 124,002 in January had increased to 135,207 by February and 141,871 by March.

He asserted that 21 "distressed counties" during those months spent $6,772,000 of the $11,576,000 made available by the last special session of the legislature which officially adjourned Feb. 28, leaving them a balance of $4,803,000 for the remaining nine months of 1938.

Cost to Be $27,000,000.

"Should the same ratio hold true to form in the remaining nine months," Ferguson said, "it is estimated that the total cost will be $27,000,000 for these 21 counties, which is 80 per cent of the case load of the entire state. The anticipated deficits for these 21 counties as of December 31, 1938, will be $16,000,000."

The state auditor asserted these figures agreed with estimates of the Ohio League of Municipalities, the legislative committee of which met here yesterday to draw up a relief program for submission to Gov. Martin L. Davey within the next few days with a request for an immediate special session of the general assembly.

E. E. Hagerman of Dayton, league president, described the plight of some cities as "desperate," adding:

"Anything that is done will have to be done immediately."

Completing Program.

Hagerman said the committee had not completed its relief program but would do so within the next day or so, indicating that it would include some of the suggestions made at a league meeting at Cleveland March 28.

These included proposals that the state raise at least half the additional funds needed, that legislation be enacted permitting the counties and cities to raise their share by levying taxes which the state has levied or may levy and permission to cities and counties to submit bond issues to finance their share of Works Progress Administration projects.

$555, That's What Average American Received In 1937

NEW YORK — (AP) — Based on national income the average American had $555 of money to spend in 1937 and the average family unit about $2392, the magazine Sales Management estimated today in a survey of the nation's buying power.

It was calculated the American public had an "effective buying income" of $71,525,065,000, a boost of 71 per cent over the $41,760,000,000 of 1932 and 7 per cent over the $67,000,000,000 of 1936.

This national income, the magazine said, ranked fourth highest in the nation's history.

The District of Columbia, the magazine reported, led the nation with a per family income of $3786, followed by New York's $3401. The Connecticut figure was $3160, Massachusetts $3089, and Rhode Island $2962. Michigan and California were tied at $2898.

'Independents' Win Bulk of Relief Business

Up and Down THE STREET

Richard Grudier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Grudier, 390 Marion avenue, played one of the major roles Wednesday in the presentation of "Shoemaker's Holiday" at Kenyon college. Incidentally this hilarious English comedy of Queen Elizabeth's time, was presented by Kenyon Dramatic club concurrently with its Broadway appearance. Grudier gave several fine characterizations with the Mansfield Community Players, while he was still in High school here, among them the juvenile in "Your Uncle Dudley."

* * *

William A. Duff of Ashland, a former Mansfield newspaperman, points out that current unseasonable weather conditions are not unprecedented for April. He particularly recalls the snow storm of April 20, 1901. "Snow fell to the depth of a couple feet," Duff writes, "and in some places it was three feet deep." Duff remembers the storm well because he was then a resident of Mansfield and had gone to Ashland for a visit. He was unable to return until the next day, however, because train traffic was tied up by the snow. Those were the days before automobiles, you know.

* * *

No one in Mansfield was more interested in seeing "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" than little RoAnne Farry, who is an ardent fan of Ann Gillis, the red-headed child who plays Becky Thatcher in the pictures. RoAnne met the child actress through relatives, and when Ann and Tommy Kelly, who plays Tom Sawyer, were making a personal appearance in Columbus last month the Mansfield youngster visited them, and received Ann's autographed picture. The little red-head made her film debut in "The Great Ziegfeld." RoAnne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farry, 78 Brickman avenue.

* * *

It may be a little late, but it's still good. One Mansfield woman who didn't buy a membership ticket to the Civic Music association this year, gave as her excuse that she didn't care for the two headliners, Marian Anderson, contralto, and Zimbalist, the great violinist. "I don't like women singers," she said, "and I'd much rather hear a violinist than a zimbalist any day."

$29,000 READY IN SOILS CHECKS

First Allotment Under Federal Program to Be Distributed to 500 Farmers.

Federal soil conservation checks for approximately $29,000 were ready for distribution today to 500 Richland county farmers in the first allotment received here under the 1937 crop control program, County Agent George B. Ganyard said.

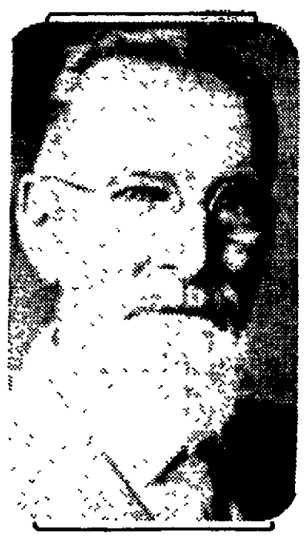
The checks will be distributed from the county soil conservation office in the basement of the courthouse and only to farmers who have received notices through the mail that their funds for participation in the program are ready, Ganyard said.

Payments are made on the basis of soil improvement practices and acreage retired from production of "cash crops" such as wheat and corn. The checks range in amounts from 98 cents to nearly $200, depending upon the size of the farm and the extent to which the participating farmer reduced his crop acreage and engaged in soil-building practices.

The present allocation represents slightly more than one-third of the amount some 1,500 county farmers will receive this year from the federal government, Ganyard estimated. He said total payments probably will be somewhat less than the $88,000 county farmers received last year.

Later in the year, other checks will be received as county reports on farms are submitted to federal officials and approved.

OLD FRIEND OF BUTLER PUPILS AND ACE QUILT MAKER 82 TODAY



GEORGE KEEFER

BUTLER—George Keefer, who served as janitor of the Butler school building for more than 41 years and was a personal friend to every boy and girl who attended school during those years, is observing his 82nd birthday anniversary today.

Mr. Keefer has the unique distinction of being one of the best and most prolific quilt makers in the state, and has accomplished the almost unbelievable task of making a quilt for every boy and girl who graduated from the school for nearly 40 years. The classes in recent years have numbered between 12 and 15 and for each one there has been an attractive patchwork quilt. In addition to these, he has made quilts for other friends.

One year he won first prize in a quilt display in which there were 1,500 entries from all over the country.

He chuckles when he recalls the years he was asked not to enter his quilts in the displays at the Farmers Institutes and fairs so that the women of the community might have an occasional chance at first prize.

He began his work as janitor in 1895 when the Butler school was a four-room "little red brick schoolhouse" and his work consisted largely of building four fires each morning and cleaning up four rooms each night. His salary in those first years was $60 a year. During the other four months of the year he worked in retail stores.

Mr. Keefer was born in Jefferson county, April 8, 1856, and came to live in Butler about 52 years ago. He gave up his janitor work about two years ago, but still is active in church affairs and is seen daily about the town, or working about his home.

'Grace Notes' Victors in District Talent Quest

Mansfield's "Three Grace Notes" were declared district final winners in the "Talent Quest" conducted by Warner Brothers Theaters, the National Broadcasting company, and The News-Journal, staged at the Ohio theater last night. They are, left to right, Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan, and Dorothy Cox, all of Mansfield. They will make a tour of six Ohio theaters next week, with winners from other districts, with the final winner going to New York for a movie test and an NBC audition.

CITY AGREES TO CHANGE SET-UP ON FOOD ORDERS

Home-Owned Grocery Stores Guaranteed 80 Per Cent by City Officials.

A new method of distributing food orders at relief headquarters that will guarantee local independent grocers 80 per cent of the city's relief business had been set up today by city officials.

The plan was drafted by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Tracy C Styert yesterday at a meeting with 25 members of the Independent Grocers Institute and local wholesalers.

Mayor Hunter said the group had called at his office and pleaded for a plan of distribution that would give them the larger share of the relief business.

"The system finally agreed upon," the mayor said, "calls for 80 per cent of the relief orders to be stamped 'this order honored only at an independent grocery,' while the other 20 per cent will not be stamped, which will permit relief clients to patronize chain stores if they desire."

Orders Unstamped In Past.

In the past none of the relief orders were stamped, with relief clients making their purchases at any store they desired.

He said the grocers had complained that the chain stores were getting the bulk of the business and that they wanted some method of distribution worked out which would guarantee them part of the business.

Ralph Schad, manager for the Independent Grocers Institute, told Hunter: "All we want is assurance of some of the relief business that we have not been getting."

He said that the institute represents 82 of the city's 102 retail grocers, and contended that the money paid out by the city should remain in Mansfield.

Mayor Hunter said he would work out some plan of rotating the 20 per cent that were not stamped, so that the same persons would not always get unstamped orders. He added that Relief Director Earl A. Nist had been notified of the change in distribution effective April 15, when the next issue of orders is to be made.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Newspapers Should Take A Look at Themselves as Result of Handbill Edict

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — Throughout the editorial hell-raising about the evil Jersey City ordinance against the distribution of handbills I had a sensation of small pain as of a splinter in my pants, and now that the supreme court has invalidated a similar ordinance on an appeal from Griffin, Ga., I shall retire to remove the pants and frisk them for the splinter.

It is just as I thought— a splinter which embarrassed me and interfered with my abandon every time I had a pure, idealistic impulse to leap and holler outrage against Frank Hague, the dictator, and his tough cops who were tossing free Americans and Communists about for handing out plaintive throwaways. I didn't exactly know and was too indolent to do the necessary reporting to ascertain whether our business—the newspaper business—was in part responsible for the passage of not only the Jersey City ordinance but many other ordinances like it in many other cities and of some state laws of similar unconstitutional effect. But now that the supreme court has declared the Griffin ordinance unconstitutional on the ground of interference with the freedom of the press, and now that many papers are cheering this decision as an indirect rebuke to Hague, let us see who it was that stood to gain over a short haul by such restrictions and who encouraged them.

Well, bless our pure, indignant, self-righteous little hearts if it wasn't our own business, the newspaper business, which feared the competition of the throwaway when it was used for advertising purposes and, either thoughtlessly or recklessly, took steps to suppress it!

I never thought of this concretely until one day in Kansas City when Otto Higgins, the old-time Kansas City Star reporter now serving as Tom Pendergast's chief of police, gave me a certain look when I denounced Hague and the J. C ordinance and said they had a similar ordinance there, and added that it was a publishers' ordinance. That one caused me to roll into a clinch and wrestle until I could change the subject, but I made a note of it and meant to look up the stuff on my return home.

Since then we have had the Griffin decision, and it singes me slightly to note that in all the editorial comment on the reaffirmation of a sacred principle of democracy and the editorial clouts at Frank Hague there is not the slightest intimation of a confession of error on our part.

But guilty we were, and it should be a lesson to us to hedge away from and, if necessary, fight like pit-dogs against the circulation and advertising departments whenever they come up with any proposal which looks elegant and high-minded at a superficial glimpse but which might contain, as this one did, a vicious offense against the very thing by which we live—freedom of the press.

A friend of mine who publishes an important New Jersey paper tells me, now that I put the question up to him, that, sure, our business fostered such ordinances and laws in many places. Usually the deed is done through innocent organizations whose purpose is to keep the streets free of litter, and editorially we have been sincere in our indorsement of that object.

But to achieve a small victory in a petty matter which very easily could be handled by the cops under existing ordinances or by new and stricter ordinances against littering the streets we subscribed to a dangerous impairment of our own most precious right.

* * *

It is an evil bird which fouls its own nest, and I may seem to be guilty in saying all this, but here we have been taken in sin, and I think it would be good for our soul and our reputation to own up and turn square. Such men as Frank Hague, if he is all our editorials have said of him, should not be in a position to say that we were their partners in crime and blew the whistle on them when the pinch came.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Those hardy battlers, Flagg and Quirt, have had a long and more or less honorable career on the screen and the end is not yet.

In "The Battle of Broadway" they are no longer Flagg and Quirt, except in spirit. Edmund Lowe, who used to play Quirt to Victor McLaglen's Flagg, is absent from the cast. McLaglen plays Big Ben Wheeler, and his adversary in heavy boasting and light romance is Brian Donlevy as Chesty Webb.

The boys are sent by their steel mill boss (Raymond Walburn) to the New York American Legion convention to break up a romance between the boss' son and a show-girl. Bunglingly, they pick the wrong show-girl (Louise Hovick) and fight for her affections, end by seeing her triumphant in the situation, themselves behind the eight-ball.

"The Battle of Broadway" is not quite a landmark in movie history but it is a clever, quick-paced and often riotously funny piece. George Marshall's direction accents speed without sacrificing deftness, and probably must be credited for eliciting a better performance than expected from hither-to wooden Louise Hovick.

Raymond Walburn as the steel boss takes the character comedy laurels, and Sammy Cohen and Esther Muir are especially effective among the support.

Marcel Pagnol's play "Fanny," in its movie translation, was known first as "Madelon," then as "Life on the Waterfront" and finally as "Port of Seven Seas," which is none too appropriate either. Nominally a starring vehicle for Wallace Beery, the film suffers apparently from the same indecision which marked its quest for a title.

Actually the sincere and moving story of a girl whose lover could not resist the sea and who turned, in her biological predicament, to marriage with a kindly, understanding older man, the film is retarded at intervals by excessive talkiness to spotlight Beery.

When it swings clear of this handicap and settles upon its real job, "Port of Seven Seas" approaches greatness as adult drama, honestly stated, brilliantly acted, and satisfactorily concluded. The real stars are Maureen O'Sullivan, in an inspired emotional performance, and Frank Morgan, who endows the character of the old lover Panisse with unstrained pathos, a triumph in a role that invited over-acting. John Beal, in his one big scene supports his corner of the triangle admirably.

James Whale's direction, in the important scenes, is sure and masterful.

The week's novelty is "Her Jungle Love" a technicolor thriller with Ray Milland, Dorothy Lamour, Lynne Overman, and Jiggs, late lamented chimpanzee.

The plot is as wild as any movie serial's. A couple of aviators stranded on a tropical island, a lone girl in sarong, a sinister chieftain from a neighboring island who leads his natives over from time to time to stage an alligator jamboree make a familiar dramatis personae.

There's never any doubt as to what is coming next, and even the spectacular volcanic eruption is no surprise. But—

Unless you're awf'ly, awf'ly sophisticated, watch out. You may find your heart in your throat more than once, and Overman's running fire of "gags" may keep you howling when you aren't sitting there tensely pretending you don't believe a scene of it.

W. L. MILLER TALKS AT WEST FIFTH SCHOOL

'Our Children' Superintendent's Topic for Discussion; Miss Henrietta Frank Tells of Northwest Territory Celebration.

GUEST SPEAKER at the meeting of the West Fifth Street School Mothers' club was W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools. He spoke to the mothers yesterday afternoon at the school on the subject "Our Children." Comparing home life of a generation ago with that of today he said, "Most of a child's training can be and is gained from outside institutions rather than the home."

This fact is unwillingly accepted, he pointed out, but there are many advantages in it. It has a tendency to build greater breadth of interest and activity. Along this line Mr. Miller explained that it is advisable for the home to be a part of the institutions or else loose touch with the child. The principal obligations of the home are to teach respect, train for independence, help the child to know his resources and to direct activities along safe and wise channels.

Miss Henrietta Frank gave a talk on the Northwest Territory celebration in which she spoke of the part Mansfield and the schools will take when the caravan comes here May 2.

During the business meeting the all-day session on social hygiene which will be held April 18 at the First Presbyterian church was announced. Dr. Carl Wilzbach and Mrs. Frances Bruce Strain will be the guest speakers. The music festival at the high school May 10 and the West Fifth school open house May 26 were also announced. Four In Room Discourage Mother

By VIRGINIA LEE

A discouraged mother has a real problem, and I'm afraid I cannot do much to help her.

She has four children, a girl nearly 16, one of 11, a boy past 14 and one eight and a half years old. These four children all have to sleep in one small bedroom. They have bunk beds, she says, but even so they are too crowded.

The mother has had two nervous breakdowns recently, she writes, but her husband remains unimpressed. There is a low attic in their home but it is not high enough, she says, to be made into a bedroom for the boys, one of whom is five feet nine inches tall. He could not stand upright in it.

They are buying this home and the wife wants her husband to trade it in for a larger and more modern one, but he refuses to do so. She has even been out looking for another house, but a quarrel was the only result. She has appealed to the juvenile home and police, she says, about the matter, but to no avail.

As you have only lived in this house for two and one-half years, I cannot understand why you consented to buy it. Discouraged Mother. You had the same sized family then that you have now, didn't you? One can hardly blame your husband for not wanting to take a bigger place before he has this paid for, unless he is able to find a very good bargain which would make it easy.

Should Not Be Permitted.

I certainly would not permit all four of these youngsters to sleep in one room, if I were you. Could you make a room for the girls upstairs? They are not as tall as the boys are they? Or the boys could sleep up in the attic for the present, even if it isn't high. They don't sleep standing up. Couldn't you have a couple of cots for them? Of course it would not be as nice as if the attic were high ceilinged, but it would be vastly better than to have all the children in one room. Girls and boys of that age certainly should be separated in their sleeping quarters, and if it is possible each one should have his or her own bed, even if it is only a cot.

Please get your mind off nervous breakdowns and try to work out your problem. I know it must be very trying for six people all to be crowded into such a small house, but just think, some folk don't have any homes at all! Maybe, if the attic plan won't work, you can let the girls sleep in the living room. Later on, when the house is nearer to being paid for, you can, by degrees, coax your husband to look for a larger place where you can all be more comfortable.

Plant snapdragons under glass and transplant out of doors in May to get an abundance of blossoms.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

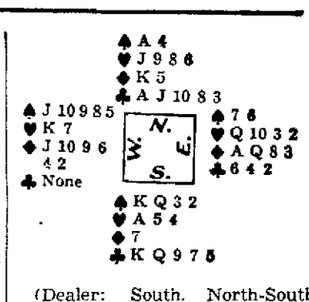
"The Authority on Authorities"

COUNT ON YOUR MATE

WHEN YOUR partner's lead against no trump is clearly his fourth best of your bid suit, you can usually depend on him to do some part of the defensive work. If the declarer tries to squeeze you by running his length, keep your guards in the remaining two suits and discard the one you had called. Leave that one to your partner to protect.

One very daring pair reached a 6-No Trumps on this deal in a recent duplicate, and because West failed to discard properly, gained success in the endeavor.

South started with 1-Club. West called 1-Diamond, North 2-No Trumps, South 3-Clubs, West 3-Spades, North 3-No Trumps, South 4-No Trumps and North 6-No Trumps.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Against this contract East led the diamond 3, although his partner contended his correct lead was the heart 2. Regardless of that fact, West was the one who from that point on enabled North to make his contract.

It was quite evident from East's lead that he held four diamonds. Therefore, instead of discarding any spades on the clubs, West should have tossed all of his diamonds and depended on East to guard that suit. His poor discarding enabled the declarer to cash five clubs, four spades, two diamonds and a heart. East, who counted on West for a sure spade trick, was desperately trying to cash a heart, and in so doing, let his diamonds go

Make-up For Wearers Of Glasses

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

The movie stars have done a great favor for the girls who wear glasses. They started something when they made dark glasses popular. Now, as in the days of the French kings, specs are a chic affectation. So if glasses have been prescribed for you, don't be looking for a place on the shelf because men do like girls who wear glasses.

There are a few simple beauty secrets to wearing glasses that will add tremendously to your appearance.

It's a good idea to select your glasses to suit your style of beauty. Sit down before a mirror at your optician's and try on different types, just as you would when buying a hat. Look at yourself from every angle and pick out the ones most becoming to you.

How to Use Makeup.

Since specs are an accessory to your clothes, it's a good idea to have several pairs Smart women wear spectacles with sport clothes and tailored suits. Glasses with slender metal frames are the thing for afternoon dresses, and oxfords or lorgnettes with evening dresses.

Remember not to wear too much jewelry such as earrings, costume necklaces and flashy hair ornaments. Jewelry and glasses will make your face look all cluttered up

Now for makeup. Use eye shadow that harmonizes with the color of your eyes. Shadow comes in both paste and powder form, and can be had in gray, brown, black, blue, green and purple so you won't have any trouble finding the right shade. Mascara should also be used. It can be purchased in cake or liquid form and comes in brown, black, blue and green. The use of shadow and mascara calls attention to your eyes and away from your glasses. If you've got long lashes that bump against the glasses, it is more comfortable and becoming to use an eyelash curler before applying your mascara. Brush your lashes with a dry, clean brush after putting on your mascara. This separates the hairs and removes any excess that might flake or cake.

You'll need to apply your rouge and lipstick differently, too. Apply your rouge lightly up near your eyes when wearing glasses, because the frames cast a shadow on your cheek bones which deepens the color there. You should emphasize your mouth with as bright a lipstick as you can wear becomingly. This draws attention away from the glasses. With a pale mouth your glasses would be the most conspicuous thing about your face Put some face powder under your eyes to avoid a shine. On your nose use a subtle powder, slightly darker than the powder you use on the rest of your face.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Despite the horror and uncertainty which had gripped me ever since I had heard the unknown woman and Dicky in queer, sinister colloquy upon the other side of the partition in the French restaurant, I could not repress a grim smile of amusement at the undeniable consternation of the man whom the woman evidently had summoned to her table at the instant of Dicky's departure.

He was evidently afraid that he might be "let in" for the bill for the dinner which Dicky had left uneaten and to which she had bidden him.

The woman relieved his anxiety with scorn.

"You poor sap!" she said. "Don't judge a bird like Dicky Graham by your own poor carcass. He'd no more leave a girl flat in a restaurant than his lady wife would do a strip tease act in a honky tonk. Not but what I'd like to see her have to do just that with a blacksnake whip urging her on—the—"

Leaps Up In Anger.

The string of adjectives was unprintable, and Mary involuntarily leaped to her feet, but sat down as quickly again, as I said "Mary, Dearest, please!"

"I know," she said contritely. "But that dame will never know how nearly she came to having her neck wrung. But let's start in on these escargots. They'll get cold if we don't, and we've heard enough to convince you that whatever jam Uncle Dicky is in, it isn't for love of that dame in the booth that he's in it."

I agreed with her, and queerly enough my spirits were much lighter for the knowledge, even though I was distinctly afraid that Dicky was in a more sinister "jam" than some mere sordid affair with a woman. Yet, any wife can understand my feeling of relief. I should have been high-minded enough to prefer my own betrayal to some danger menacing my husband, but I was not yet upon that unselfish plane.

"They'll be eating now," Mary went on in a low tone, "if I know their kind, and I think I do. Any discussion they have will be staged later, so we might as well enjoy our dinner, too We can stop and listen at any minute we want to. And aren't you agreed we ought to listen? There's something brewing that I haven't dreamed of. We may be able to save Uncle Dicky a peck or two of trouble if we hold our ears at the proper angle and bottle up the information for reference as soon as we get it."

Ought to Listen.

I smiled at her enthusiasm, which was truly infectious, and my spirits bounded to the top of the thermometer.

"Yes, I agree with you that we ought to listen to whatever they say," I told her, and realized anew something I had forgotten, that I was hungry. Mary put my thoughts into words

"Queer how things get you," she said. "Before this man came into the picture, I couldn't have swallowed a morsel, for I didn't know—I wasn't sure—"

She stumbled and stammered, and I knew what she was thinking. She had feared her idolized uncle was involved in something merely sordid instead of sinister and menacing, and the thought had robbed her of appetite for food as effectually as it had not.

"But now, when things—are different—I could eat a double order of everything. What say,

Child Doesn't Get Along, Anti-Social

Head, Dept. Parent Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I am at my wits' end. Here I sit almost in tears and my boy outside alone I never dreamed it could be so hard for a child to get socially adjusted. Please tell me what to do. I feel so sorry for my child. We have been moving around quite a lot, and I know he never did get acquainted very well with children his own age. He is four years of age. He is quickly insulted and cries at the least difficulty . . . He is always boasting how much bigger and better he and his toys and all of our belongings are—probably to cover up his inferiority complex. Otherwise there is not the least bit of conceit or falsehood in him . . . You guessed right, he is the only child, and probably will be unless we adopt another child.

"On one side of us lives a boy his age, on the other a little girl. The boys have been playing together pretty good. Now that the girl plays out, too, she and the other boy are cutting my boy continually. He is all right when one of them is alone, but when together they send him out of their yards, and he cries, or they hit him and he cries. He does not fight back although he is bigger than they are. He is too shy to go and play with othe boys in the neighborhood. . . .

No Nursery School.

"Of course you will say, Send him to a nursery school. But even if I could afford it, there aren't any around here. I have read quite a lot on child psychology, but still I don't know what to do now. I shall wait for your answer in the paper or by mail."

To be sure I answered her by mail, as I do all who request a personal reply. Since her problem is the problem of hundreds of my readers, let me pass on essentially what I wrote her.

I think I know how both you and your little fellow suffer. You have the "eternal triangle." Find a way to attract more children to the group, especially to your home, even if you must hire or bribe them. Visit homes with this lad where there are children about his age.

When your child comes to you crying, be calm and show not too much pity. Don't condemn the other children nor try to discipline them. Let your child fight his own battles and settle his own quarrels. Maybe Dad can show him how to use his fists in self-defense. The first time he does stand up in self-defense, heartily reward him, but never shame or scold him for cowardice. Betray no emotion when he gets a bump; praise him when he bears pain without flinching. Try to make him less dependent on you. Let him grow up.

Auntie Madge—are you game to share another order of escargots with me?"

"You'd disrupt the restaurant, Mary," I told her, smiling. "Let's stick to our original menu. We'll have more time for 'listening in'."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 9.

A VERY sudden and surprising development in the affairs may be predicted from important planetary configurations. This is likely to have a rather devastating effect on current affairs, with travel, removal or definite change.

Those whoe birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden and unforeseen developments that may have a very radical influence on the life and its fortunes. These are under propitious aspects, with change, travel, new associations and interests assured, although following a drastic disruption.

A child born on this day, while it may be restless and fond of sudden moves and change, will nevertheless be talented and have sound judgment and responsibility. It should win the confidence and support of its superiors and elders. It may benefit by wills, trusts or insurance and be generally fortunate.

CREAM OF CELERY SOUP—Six stalks celery, one-half cup water, three cups milk, one slice onion, three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, three tablespoons glycerine, pepper. Wash celery, cut in inch pieces and cook with onion in water until done. Force through coarse sieve. Melt butter, add flour and milk and cook until thickened. Add glycerine and cook until sauce is done. Add sieved celery to sauce and reheat before serving.

My Neighbor Says:

Keep a dry mop and duster on each floor of your house thus saving time and energy when cleaning.

Pieces of ribbon that come on gift boxes may be utilized in making shoulder straps for underwear. Cut them into six or eight-inch strips.

Half a teaspoon of baking powder added to fudge after it has been removed from the stove will make it light and fluffy.

SUCH TENDER VELVETY TEXTURE. SUCH RICH CHOCOLAT-Y FLAVOR

Spry GIVES FLAKIER PASTRY, CRISPER FRIED FOODS, TOO. AND SO DIGESTIBLE

Cook this EASIER way
and get doubly delicious results

COOKING experts for 281 home-making schools say Spry's the creamiest shortening they ever used. No wonder cake and pastry making goes so much faster with Spry. And you'll say no other shortening at any price ever gave such light, delicate cakes as Spry does, such tender, flaky pastry.

Spry-fried foods are far superior, too—crisp, delicate, so digestible a child can eat them. Get Spry today. Get the economical 3-lb. can.

Spry The new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening TRIPLE-CREAMED!

PRIMROSE CHOCOLATE CAKE

½ cup Spry
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
3 ounces chocolate, melted
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup milk

Combine Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Do quick and easy with triple-creamed Spry! Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Notice what a smooth, fluffy batter you get. No wonder Spry cakes are so light and fine-grained! Add melted chocolate and blend well.

Add baking powder and soda to flour and sift 3 times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Pour batter into two 8 inch layer cake pans greased with Spry. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. But remember, use Spry to be sure of best results.

Spread Primrose Cream Icing between layers and on top and sides of cake. Sprinkle with grated chocolate as shown in picture.

PRIMROSE CREAM ICING

2 tablespoons Spry
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 egg yolk
4 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons scalded cream (about)

Combine Spry, butter, salt and vanilla. Spry makes your frosting smooth and creamy—keeps it fresh and moist. Add ½ cup sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add egg yolk and blend. Add remaining sugar, alternately with orange juice, beating until smooth. Add hot cream and beat well. Add just enough cream to make a nice spreading consistency. Makes enough frosting for tops and sides of two 8-inch layers.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS OFFER VACATION IDEAS

Summer's Still Few Months Away But Thoughts Are Turning to Holidays.

Despite ice and snow this week thoughts are turning toward summer vacations and for those who follow the slogan of "See America First" the Mansfield Public library recommends a group of books on favorite vacation spots. A collection of new books describing various sections of the country are on display now at the library.

Among them are: 'Romantic and Historic Maine,' by Verrill, 'New York: City of Cities,' Footner; "Annapolis" Stevens 'Great Smoky Mountains" Thornborough. "Steamboating on The Upper Mississippi," Peterson 'Open Range," Bush; "Ubet," Barrows. 'High Trails of Glacier National Park," Thompson; 'Adventures in Geyser Land." Carpenter; and "Round-About America," by Peck and Johnson.

In the American Guide Series, written by the workers of the Federal Writers Project are "Maine" "New Hampshire," Rhode Island' "Philadelphia" and "Idaho." These were written with an eye to interesting detail.

A graphic picture of Ohio and the Northwest Territory is told in "The Ohio Gateway,' by D E Crouse which contains illustrated maps made by the author. While the treatment of the subject is brief, the book is concise and pertinent.

Books for Lenten Reading.

Suggestions for reading during the concluding days of Lent and Holy Week may be had from a group of new books on religious subjects. "Civilized Mind" by Hough 'Future of Christianity' by Brightman 'Parables of the Gospel" Martin, "Faith for Today' by Rall "Art of Living' Peale. "Laughing Valley and Other Sermons for Children," by Milliken 'Men of The Outposts,' by Welen. 'Mohammed and Other Prophets' was presented to the library by Muhariem Naqi.

Other new non-fiction this week includes "Your Money and Your Life' by Seldes "West Point Today" Banning "Professional Thief,' Conwell Scientific Progress," Sir James Jeans and others, "Astronomy for the Layman," Reh, "Marcus Whitman, M. D", Drury, and 'Daughter of the Eagle by Zaimi.

A short new novel by Mary Ellen Chase is entitled "Dawn in Lyonesse' Set in Cornwall, the story concerns two servant women, Ellen and Susan, and covers an eventful 48 hours in their lives. Through the book runs the thread of the medieval romance of Tristram and Iseult (Isolde), which, though it appeals to the imagination of Ellen, proves the motivating force of her character.

'Young Robert' a novel by George Albee, recounts the lives of the fabulous Limewright family of San Francisco. The story describes life during the gold rush of '49, during the havoc of the San Francisco earthquake and fire and up until 1913 when Robert Limewright is killed in a labor dispute.

"New Wine at Cock-Crow" by Geoffrey Uther Ellis, is the love story of Pippa Burney and Kim Scone and is laid in three charming settings—Wyefleet, a post-war English village; The Phantom, a cabin cruiser plying the quiet canals of Surrey; and La Cise, a [illegible] on the coast of Normandy.

Four other new fiction books this week are 'Missing Aunt" by Cole, "Sleepy Horse Range," MacDonald 'Gotch: The Story of A Cowhorse," 'Sweetman, and "Amulet of Guilt," by Taylor.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS TEACH DANCING

It Forms Part of Regular Classroom Curriculum.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Chicago public school authorities have decided to include dancing in the high school curriculum as a means of making the boys and girls more sociable.

Superintendent William H. Johnson issued a bulletin saying the instruction should develop the social graces and destroy self-consciousness.

The lessons start with pupils paired into couples marching to music. Next come the simple dance steps and instrutcion in etiquette.

CHAPTER VII.

"Wait!" Mr. Lushington said. "My keys have never been out of my possession." Algy was about to speak but Lushington went on after a pause.

"I had a bath before dinner, and they were on the dressing-table with my watch and note-case, but the bathroom had a communicating door, and I am pretty sure it was ajar. Besides—and here is the point—how could any one at the Wessex-Gardners' have known that I had this memorandum in my possession. The party was quite small—my wife and I, the Colesboroughs, and the Bingham Wessex-Gardners. Bingham, as you probably know, married my wife's sister Constance. It was therefore something in the nature of a family party, but I also wished to take the opportunities it would afford of some quite informal conversations with Beaufort Wessex-Gardner and Francis Colesborough. They are both undertaking very large 'government contracts. This question of sabotage would affect them."

Algy hesitated, and risked a question.

"Was the memorandum very important?"

Mr. Lushington drummed on the arm of his chair.

"Oh, the skies won't fall. There have been, as you know, a certain number of acts of sabotage. There have been allusions in the press, and there have been questions in the House. There had been some uneasiness, and a general tightening up of precautionary measures. Then the Foreign Office Intelligence came along with the theory of an organization directed from abroad and with very wide ramifications." He paused. Algy was aware of scrutiny.

Mr. Lushington went on speaking.

"Colonel Garratt is convinced that such an organization exists. He believes it has plans for sabotage on a large scale. If this country were faced with a sudden emergency, these plans would be brought into operation. He has compiled a list of suspected agents, and was very anxious that I should sanction a general round-up. I wished to think the matter over, and asked to be furnished with a memorandum and a list of the suspected persons before the week-end. The envelope delivered to Carstairs contained this information. It came from Colonel Garratt through our own people, and I am not excluding the possibility of a leakage, but it is sufficiently obvious that there would have been no need to steal the papers if the information had already been obtained from either of the departments concerned. When I say that the messenger is above suspicion, I have regard not only to his character and length of service, but to the fact that it is incredible he would have risked substituting a blank envelope for the one addressed to me, when all he had to do was to allow the enclosure to be copied or photographed. He could not possibly have anticipated that neither Carstairs, nor you, nor I myself would not immediately examine the envelope and detect the fraud. Now, Algy, I am coming to the point. The papers were stolen a week ago. I am advised that a raid would not be likely to produce sufficient evidence to justify itself. Whoever had an interest in acquiring the papers has therefore probably achieved his end. He has found out which of his agents are under suspicion. He has been able to warn them, and he will now probably replace them. We shall have to begin all over again. As I said before, the skies won't fall, but what matters to me is the suggestion that the papers were stolen here in my own house."

Algy felt exactly as if some one had poured about half a pint of cold water down the back of his neck, because—well, after all—hang it all—what was Monty saying?

He said aloud, "Yes, sir?" and was rather proud of the fact that the words came out in quite an ordinary tone.

"It has been suggested to me—Algy knew as Monty paused that Monty was about to make his real point—"it has been suggested that it would have been far more credible that an attempt to steal the papers should be made here, where the fact that I was expecting them was known, and their nature if not known was at least guessed at, rather then at Wellings, where no one could reasonably be supposed to have any information on the subject.

Algy had been thinking. His thoughts made a clear and very unpleasant pattern. He wanted to get up, to shout out the fury and anger that filled him. But he did not do either of these things. He sat quite still, and he said quietly.

"That puts it on me."

"That is why I am talking to you like this," said Montagu Lushington. "When you say that this puts it on you, you are perhaps exaggerating. Four people handled the envelope in this house—"

"Four?"

Mr. Lushington inclined his head.

"The messenger — Carstairs — you, Algy,—and I. The messenger really is above suspicion. Our own people swear to him. There remains Carstairs, whom I am prepared to swear to and you, Algy, and myself. If I could remember reading the address upon the envelope I should be able to clear you, and in doing so I should prove, no doubt to some people's satisfaction, that I had abstracted the papers myself."

Algy looked across the table, as he would not look, except under stress, for a dozen years at least. He said, still in that quiet voice:

"It does come back to me, you see. Do I have to say that I didn't do it, sir?"

He got the shrewd look again Montagu Lushington said, "Not to me Algy."

Algy Somers was dining with the Giles Westgates. Giles was his very good friend, and Linda was a cousin—one of the many cousins on a highly prolific family tree. Linda and Giles knew every one, went everywhere, did everything. They probably knew "all about" the papers that had gone missing at the Wessex-Gardners'—had an expert collection of every scrap of fact and gossip. This being so, Algy had serious thoughts of getting the man at his rooms to ring up and say that he was dead. No lesser excuse would be any good.

Algy turned on his bath, and reflected that this was one of the most unpleasant days he had ever spent. The fog outside was nothing to the fog within. In this fog of suspicion, which would never amount to accusation, he had endured the long humiliating hours of a long humiliating day. He brought himself to realize that the future now promised an indefinite number of similar days. The Home Secretary had asked for an important memorandum on sabotage, and it was missing. Algy Somers was the person who had had by far the best opportunity of taking it. This was quite insane, quite incontrovertible proposition. And there they were. And there he was. There was no evidence of course. Nobody would quite accuse him, nobody would quite believe him. There would be a whisper that would pursue him wherever he went and whatever he did. It would be prefaced by a vague "They say," or a hearty "Of course, I don't believe it but—" and it would slide by insidious degrees from danging into damning him.

And only twenty-four hours ago he had been trying to remember that a young man with the future ahead of him had better put off thinking about marriage for another half dozen years or so. Well, where was the future now? He had nothing to offer Gay Haldwicke or any other girl.

Monty would stand by him — Monty had behaved uncommon well—but the fact that he was a relation put them both in an awkward position. It would have been much easier, for instance, for Monty to stand up for Brewster.
